Consumer Prices Surge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer prices in July increased at an annual rate of 14.4 percent, the Labor Department said today in a report that may signal the beginning of another inflationary surge.

The government's Consumer Price Index jumped 1.2 percent last month, seasonally adjusted, the steepest monthly rise since last September.

The sharp July rise comes on the heels of a 0.8 percent increase in June. For the previous five months of 1975, consumer prices had risen an average 0.5 percent.

If the cost of retail prices continue to rise for the next 12 months at the July pace, the inflation rate as measured by the CPI would equal 14.4 percent, solidly within the "double digit" range that plagued the nation in 1973 and 1974. In 1974 the rate was 12.2 percent.

"Price increases for meat, poultry, fresh fruits and vegetables, gasoline, and used cars accounted for about three fourths of the July increase," the department said.

With the impact of higher prices for grain, steel, aluminum and many raw materials still to be felt at the retail level, hopes for a prolonged period of price stability appear to be lessening.

The index has now risen nearly 10 percent since July, 1974 and stands at 162.3. This means that an assortment of retail goods and services that cost $10 in the 1967 base year had risen in price to $16.23 last month.

Breaking the index into separate categories, food prices rose 1.7 percent in July, the biggest rise in 11 months. Prices of nonfood commodities rose 0.9 percent, the highest in 10 months and the cost of services was up 0.5 percent somewhat less than in June.

In the food area, fresh vegetables and poultry prices rose "considerably more" than in June, the department said. Prices of dairy products rose for the first time this year and egg prices moved up after a two month decline.

Pork prices pushed up fast and beef prices also rose but less rapidly than in May and June. Beef, pork and poultry prices has now risen nearly 20 percent since April.

... But GNP Climbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The real Gross National Product rose 1.6 percent in the second quarter of 1975 for the first increase in the GNP since the beginning of the current recession, the Commerce Department said today.

The first three month increase in the GNP in 18 months corresponded with the traditional economic theory that a rise in the GNP after several declines meant an end to a recession.

Commerce also said inflation dropped to 5 percent in the second quarter to mark its lowest level since the end of 1972, when it was 4.1 percent.

But the Labor Department said today that consumer prices are on the rise again. The Consumer Price Index for July rose 1.2 percent—an annual rate of 14.4 percent if it continues at that pace for the next 12 months, a Labor report said.

The growth in the April-June quarter in the GNP was the highest since a 14.4 percent rise in the first quarter of 1971, Commerce said.

The increase followed a 11.4 percent decline in first quarter of the year. With inflation included the GNP was estimated at $1.44 trillion up 6.7 percent from the previous quarter.

The report today was a revision of the preliminary GNP which had shown an 0.3 percent decline in the second quarter. Today's report was considered more accurate because more complete data was available than one month ago.

Commerce said the five quarters of decline in the GNP in 1974-75 was the longest since the end of World War II.

Ulster Dems Tab Starkman As Candidate for Supervisor

LAKE KATRINE

Town of Ulster Democrats Wednesday night nominated George Starkman as their candidate for supervisor in the November election.

Starkman defeated Aaron Bahl in the race for the supervisor's nomination, but voting tallies were not announced. Kenneth Dargis, town Democratic chairman, said that all defeated candidates "in a gesture of unity for the town Democratic party, had asked that winning candidates be voted in unanimously by the caucus."

Starkman will face incumbent Republican Supervisor Carmine Sabino in the November election. Sabino emerged the victor Monday in a three-way Republican contest for the GOP nomination.

With about 180 party faithful in attendance, Democrats also nominated Robert Mitchell as their candidate for highway superintendent, John Montague for councilman (two years), Dargis and Daniel Houser for councilman (four years), Peter Tiano for town justice, Rita Swift for town clerk, and Allen Duane for tax collector.

Mitchell was victorious over Thomas Clausi in the contest for the highway superintendent nomination. Dargis and Houser won out over Joseph Policiano, while Tiano, Mrs. Swift and Duane were unopposed.

"I am delighted with the caliber and quality of the people who won the nominations," Dargis said. "The people who were defeated showed their spirit, and I predict a win in November because of that attitude and the willingness of our people to work hard for the unity of the party."

Dargis said that Starkman, a 30-year resident of the area and a certified public accountant, had recently sold his accounting business and will campaign as a prospective full-time supervisor.

Mitchell, a 20-year resident of Ruby, is a self-employed businessman with extensive experience in the construction business, with special emphasis on heavy equipment. He has promised a comprehensive review of the highway department and to lay out a planned maintenance program for town roads.

Montague, of Halcyon Park, is a 12-year town resident employed by IBM. He was active in establishing the Halcyon Park Homeowners' Association and has been active in civic affairs. Montague has attended every town board meeting for the past two years, Dargis said.

Houser, a retired U. S. Navy chief warrant officer, is experienced in finances and supervised a staff of about 30 persons in disbursement activities during his Navy career. He is a past president of the Civil Service Employees Association unit with the Kingston City Schools Consolidated.

Dargis, a U. S. Naval Academy graduate, is a marketing representative for the E. I. duPont Corporation. He said he is convinced that taxes can do down if budgets are handled more efficiently than they have been.

Mrs. Swift, a Ruby resident, said she would aim at more efficient services by making the town clerk's office more readily available to the public.

Tiano, of East Kingston, has been active in Little League and other sports organizations since he ran for town justice eight years ago. An IBM employee, he said he was returning to politics because he feels that the times ahead are of crucial importance to town residents.

Duane, of Spring Lake, is on the faculty at Ulster County Community College. He feels that his bookkeeping background qualifies him for the tax collector's post.

Onteora Voters Approve $7.2 Million Budget

By Carl Graham

BOICEVILLE

A light turnout of voters of the Onteora Central School District Wednesday night approved a $7,245,319 budget for the 1975-76 school year.

Donald Lawson, school board president, said that he was "very happy" that the public had supported the revised budget.

The final vote in favor of the budget was 1,290 to 820. The turnout of slightly more than 2,100 (about 56 percent of the eligible voters) was down considerably from May 28, when more than 77 percent of the voters turned down a $7,566,930 budget by a 1,610-1,151 margin.

Dr. Frank Marlow, superintendent of schools, was "very pleased with the expression of confidence by the public in the school district. This will permit us to continue to provide the students with an outstanding educational program. I think the results of the election will make 3,500 youngsters very happy."

After the May 28 budget defeat the board worked closely with a citizens' committee and another comprised of administrators and teachers to chop $333,611 off the defeated budget. Major cutbacks included central services ($29,014); teaching ($84,321); instructional support ($19,450); interfund transfers ($34,586); and reduction of a $165,500 planned balance by $130,000.

The approved budget is up $688,000 from the 1974-75 figure. Estimated tax rates for the various towns comprising the district show Woodstock with $14.1988 per thousand of assessed valuation, down $23.59; Olive, $261.5886, up $34.85; Hurley, $139.2233, up $19.18; Shandaken, $64.0680, down $1.75; Lexington, $91.5517, up $9.93; and Marbletown, $188.3095, up $18.24.

Figures compiled by the board and made available at two public informational meetings show that the tax rate based on true valuation has declined in the district for the past five years. For 1970-71 it was $23.36, dropping to $22.43 for 1971-72. It declined to $22.24 in 1972-73 and to $21.51 in 1973-74. The rate was $20.41 in 1974-75 and the estimated 1975-76 rate is $19.23.

Lawson said that all classroom facilities will be available at the junior-senior high school when school opens, with the exception of the cafeteria, which will be completed about two weeks later. Voters on May 28 approved a $110,000 appropriation to separate junior high school and senior high school facilities at the Boiceville school.

Lawson thanked board members, the administrative and teaching staffs, and various civic organizations for their "hard and diligent work so we can open the school year with a budget that will provide the students of this district with a well-rounded education."

He also expressed special thanks to John Mower, the board's vice president, for an "excellent job" of compiling the budget and presenting it to the public while he (Lawson) was out of town for three weeks on business.

Betty Ford Opens the Bedroom Door

NEW YORK (UPI) — If reporters had bothered to ask Betty Ford how often she sleeps with her husband, the First Lady says her answer would have been: "As often as possible."

Mrs. Ford, who claims credit for the naming of the nation's lone present female cabinet appointee, also says she conveys her views to the President during their "pillow talk" hours.

In an interview with Myra MacPherson in the September issue of McCall's magazine, Mrs. Ford was quoted as saying reporters have asked her everything except how often she sleeps with her husband, and "if I'd asked me I would have told them."

"When I asked her what she would have said, she shot back, 'As often as possible,'" Miss MacPherson wrote.

"Declining to follow the White House tradition of separate bedrooms, Mrs. Ford ... said with amusement that she could do only so much for politics."

"While she has not invaded the Oval office, Mrs. Ford gets her views across when she and the President are alone; she calls it 'pillow talk,'" the article said.

The First Lady said she and presidential adviser Robert Hartmann "don't always jibe; I'm willing to admit that."

"I think perhaps my resentment of Bob comes from his trying to run my husband's life — and yet I think he is very valuable to my husband. Perhaps I feel he oversteps his boundaries."

Mrs. Ford said she feels she has done "a great deal" for the Equal Rights Amendment. President Ford, according to the article, has given up his practice of joking about ERA.

"Asked if she pushes her point of view, Mrs. Ford laughed and said, 'If he doesn't get it in the office in the day, he gets it in the ribs at night,'" the McCall's article said.

Mrs. Ford takes credit for the appointment of U.S. Housing and Urban Development Secretary Carla Hills. The article said she now is "working on getting a woman on the Supreme Court as soon as possible."

She said her philosophy is to be tolerant of the opinions and ways of life of others, including the practice of some men and women of living together without benefit of matrimony.

At Vail, Colo., White House press secretary Ron Nessen was asked for Ford's reaction to the latest interview. "His philosophy is that Mrs. Ford can speak her mind," he said.

Mrs. Ford discussed her mastectomy operation openly. She said she is completely recovered but that the operation "had Jerry so upset; he was so concerned for me."

"But look at it positively."

Which would you rather lose — a right arm or a breast? I'd rather lose the breast," the First Lady said.

The First Lady also revealed she is suffering from a recurrence of her chronic arthritic neck ailment.

The President's wife believes her ailment was aggravated by a 70-minute helicopter ride over the Rocky Mountains on her arrival at Vail, Colo. 11 days ago. She has suffered from an arthritic condition for 10 years.

Mrs. Ford has been taking whirlpool baths in the swimming pool at their rented chalet to ease the pain.

She joined the President at the home of their longtime friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kindel, for a flaming prime rib and pecan pie dinner Wednesday.

When the President heads back to Washington after an overnight stopover in Chicago Sunday, Mrs. Ford plans to continue her vacation in Vail until about Aug. 30, according to friends.

The Fords' daughter, Susan, 18, also will remain in Vail until early in September. She will return to Washington just in time to begin her freshman year at Mt. Vernon Junior College in Washington.

The Fords' son, Jack, 23, returned to Washington Wednesday.

Dick and Liz To Try It Again

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The embers to ashes romance of Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor that kept the world agog for a decade with gifts of million dollar jewels, is aflame again.

Close friends and legal advisers of the couple said today they were back together and may remarry.

"They missed each other," said Maurice Solowicz, the Geneva attorney who arranged their settlement when the couple divorced June 26, 1974 after 10 tempestuous years of marriage.

"They will live together, they decided to be together again, and they may remarry, but not tomorrow," he said.

Miss Taylor joined Burton today in discussions with the producers of the forthcoming movie "Aabakarov," an Israeli film in which Burton is to star.

For the time being, the couple will use Miss Taylor's chalet in the chic Swiss resort of Gstaad, Solowicz said.

Miss Taylor is known to dislike Burton's simple two-bedroom plus living room house in the Geneva suburb of Céligny.

Burton's latest girlfriend, Jean Bell, who had been staying at the actor's Céligny home, has left for California, according to local residents.

There have been reports that she is expecting Burton's child but asked about that before she left Tuesday, Miss Bell said merely, "Richard is away for a few days and apart from that I have nothing to say."

As long as Burton and Miss Taylor do not remarry, the divorce settlement of last year remains in effect, friends said.

Up, Up and Away With a Stowaway

MASHPEE, Mass. (UPI) — Balloonist Robert Sparks began his trans-Atlantic journey today with a stowaway.

G. Hadden Wood, a member of Sparks' ground crew, grabbed a trailing rope and was lifted off the ground as Sparks' craft took off at 1:02 a.m. Wood dangled from the balloon for about an hour before Sparks used a winch to haul him aboard, the Coast Guard said.

"They were about 3,000 feet over Nantucket Sound before he lifted this guy up to him," the Coast Guard said. The balloon "Odyssey" took off from the New Seabury Country Club here.

A spokesman for Sparks said Wood left behind a note explaining he wanted to go along with Sparks and had planned his acrobatic stowaway act in detail. The spokesman said Wood hid extra supplies for himself under the floorboards of the large gondola and attached a harness to the rope.

The spokesman said Sparks was "surprised" but not angry when he discovered Wood hitched a ride. Since there were plenty of supplies aboard for both men, he said, the attempt to make the first successful crossing of the Atlantic in a hot-air balloon would continue.

The gondola of Sparks' balloon, a 400-pound aluminum vessel of inverted "V" catamaran design, is the same craft he used in an unsuccessful attempt to cross the ocean in 1973. That attempt ended in the Atlantic off Newfoundland when a thunderstorm forced him down, 850 miles after takeoff from Bar Harbor, Maine.

He was replying to those critics who feel Savago is bound by a resolution to appoint a committee to study highway department operations.

Several legislators took exception, however, saying that Savago is bound by a resolution passed last Thursday calling for a legislative investigation of the highway department, not specifically of criticized Camallonga severely for "poor judgement."

Countering Savago said it was a matter of interpretation that Camallonga is the only one accused." No allegations were made against anyone else," he said.

Pointing to the wording in the resolution, Savago notes that it alleged acts of misconduct, malfeasance or nonfeasance all of which are, by implication, directed at Camallonga, whose name appears several times on the resolution.

Meanwhile District Attorney Francis J. Vogt was scheduled to go before a grand jury today to present an additional charge made against Camallonga since his initial investigation of the superintendent and the operation of his department. Vogt previously found no evidence of criminal wrongdoing but

The district attorney said his decision was "absolutely not" related to requests by some legislators that the grand jury look into the highway department.

The initial investigation by Vogt showed that on several occasions Camallonga had used Ulster County Highway Department employees to build his new home in Elmendorf Heights. The probe also showed that the county employees worked for Camallonga

An incident involving the sale of a jeep for $50 to a firm doing business with the county and its subsequent purchase from the same firm at the same price by Camallonga also came under criticism.

The garage is scheduled for demolition soon after Oct. 15; the date the county takes title to the property which includes the Pearl Street building, adjacent to the Ulster County Office Building.

It is expected that the Pearl Street building will also house the county's new Office for the Aging and perhaps its new Youth Bureau.

At a recent meeting of the County Buildings Committee and the Social Services Committee it was generally agreed the moving of some social services offices into the vacated probation department space is a temporary move until such time as the entire Social Services Department is relocated in the present infirmary annex. The patients in the infirmary annex will be moved into a proposed new health-related facility added to the new infirmary on Golden Hill.

Robert H. Kuhlmann (R-Dist. 7), chairman of the Buildings Committee, reports that plans and specifications will soon be ready for the court house and jail renovations. The committee is also recommending that the entire Ulster County Legislature review and discuss the plans prior to advertising for contract bids.

Tonight will find showers and rain in the Northern Rockies, the lower Lakes, portions of the Northeast and in the southern area of the Gulf coastal states. Clear to partly cloudy elsewhere. Minimum readings include: (approx. maximum temperatures in parenthesis) Atlanta 71 (90), Boston 63 (80), Chicago 72 (88), Cleveland 68 (84), Dallas 74 (97).

Ford to Meany . . . 'Cool It a Bit'

By United Press International

On Monday AFL-CIO President George Meany said a union boycott of U.S. grain shipments to Russia would go on until the administration came to him and explained the effect of the Soviet grain purchases on consumers.

Wednesday, President Ford telephoned Meany and asked his participation in negotiations on the multifaceted dispute. Ford also called on farmers, labor and consumers to "cool it a bit" while the issues are sorted out.

In Houston, a temporary restraining order put two International Longshoremen's Association back to work Wednesday. A union leader said: "They're loading both ships. They're blowin' it in like fire right now. Everything is running smooth as silk."

It was not clear when the next pier-side showdown would come because most of the Soviet-bound grain has not yet reached port.

The temporary injunction was issued by federal judge James Noel Tuesday in Galveston. He delayed action on making it permanent Wednesday until he can hear testimony from ILA district president Ralph Massey.

Ford phoned Meany from Vail, Colo. A White House spokesman said Ford told the labor leader the same thing he told grain industry officials earlier: all parties in the dispute should "just cool it a bit" while the administration promotes a negotiated settlement.

The President also asked Meany to work with Labor Secretary John Dunlop and offered to meet personally with all sides in the dispute when he returns to the White House next week, the spokesman said.

An AFL-CIO spokesman said Meany would have no comment on the telephone call.

Earlier, Ford met with about 40 members of three wheat growing and exporting groups. He told them: "There are many pieces to this very complicated problem. I can assure you that I and my administration are on top of it . . . and I think if we can just cool it a bit for the time being, I'm confident we can find some answers."

" . . . It's my judgment that the best way to solve the problem is to lower our voices and try to work out a negotiated settlement . . . to bring the parties together for talk in a rational, reasonable way."

But Ford emphasized he intends to open the way for more grain sales to Russia, possibly after the Agriculture Department issues its farm production figures Sept. 11. Sales have been halted since the Russians bought 9.8 million tons last month.

The growers and exporters said the AFL-CIO concern about food prices was a "transparent hypocrisy" because the maritime unions really want to insure that more grain is carried on American ships at higher rates than is now the case.

Police and Firemen Agree to San Francisco Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto today announced that representatives of the city's striking police and firemen have agreed to a tentative contract settlement.

Alioto, who worked on the settlement into today's early hours, said terms would be submitted to union members and the city Board of Supervisors later in the day. Negotiators agreed not to release the terms until then.

"The union meetings will be held as soon as possible," Alioto said.

The joint strike had plunged the city into a severe municipal crisis, shutting down most police and fire stations.

A third crisis was averted Wednesday when bus and trolley drivers, scheduled to strike tonight, accepted a 6.9 percent pay increase.

Firemen walked off the job Wednesday night, joining a four-day work stoppage by police in a demand for higher pay.

In a city devastated by the 1906 earthquake and fire, the firemen's strike was considered a greater safety threat than the police walkout.

Mayor Joseph Alioto, who hurried home from strike negotiations early Wednesday when a small bomb exploded on his doorstep, insisted San Francisco is a "safe" city.

But some angry police officers disagreed, and police Capt. Jeremiah Taylor said picketed police stations have been attacked and the keys to 200 police vehicles stolen.

About 80 percent of the police and 90 percent of the firefighters were reported on strike. Each department has some 1,800 members.

Both groups were demanding double the 6.5 percent wage increase offered by the city. Their base salary is $1,378 a month.

Only emergency services were available from both departments for the nearly 800,000 residents of San Francisco.

San Francisco Fire Chief Keith Calden said a mutual aid pact, part of a statewide disaster program, was put into effect to bring in firefighters from other towns for major emergencies.

But a union spokesman, Jerry Schreff, vice president of Firefighters Local 798, said, "San Francisco now is without fire protection."

A picket captain at a fire station said, "You got guys on a rig with less than a year's experience and nobody in charge. We're the supervisors and we're out."

San Francisco International Airport remained open and replaced striking firemen with supervisory personnel.

An inspector for the Federal Aviation Agency said airport strike crisis arrangements met FAA crash and rescue requirements.

But airport director William Dwyer implemented emergency plans to divert planes with possible trouble to Oakland, across the bay.

Assistant fire chief Robert Clancy said he would help the airport's supervisory personnel, "but I refuse to accept responsibility for them. I have no professional firefighters."

Viking Launch Smooth

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — A Viking spacecraft raced through space today on an 11-month voyage to Mars. Scientists hoped the billion-dollar mission would find extraterrestrial life.

A "very clean, very smooth" launch sent the Viking ship hurtling into a hazy Florida sky Wednesday atop a Titan-Centaur rocket. Some 30 minutes later, a burn of the rocket's engines put the spacecraft on a trajectory designed to take it on a looping, 505-million mile journey around the sun to Mars.

The Viking, a mini-laboratory equipped with sophisticated sensing equipment, is to reach the planet's orbit by June 19, 1976. A lander called Prospector may be detached to touch down on the Martian surface on the nation's bicentennial July 4.

Purpose of the mission, which includes the launch of a second Viking Sept. 1, is to study soil samples and other data for evidence of life on the red planet.

"I think the probability of finding life on Mars is pretty damn small," Dr. Noel Hinners, National Aeronautics and Space Administration associate administrator for space science, said Wednesday.

"But, boy, do I ever hope we find life."

While some scientists think chances of finding life on the planet are greater than Hinners is willing to grant, others have been equally skeptical. All, however, agree the mission was worth undertaking.

"I think man is very egotistical and self-centered and takes a self-centered view of his position in the universe. It would be humbling to find life elsewhere," Hinners said.

Death Probe At VA Hospital

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — An official of the Veterans Administration and the FBI have refused to rule out murder as the cause of patient deaths in an outbreak of more than 30 mysterious respiratory failures at a VA Hospital.

Eight patients have died since July 28, but investigators said Wednesday they were concentrating on the 15 cases of respiratory failure that look most suspicious. These included two patients who died.

The FBI entered the case amid speculation that a killer was injecting patients with a paralyzing drug.

But Dr. Laurence Foye Jr.,

deputy chief of medicine for the VA in Washington and head of a special medical investigating team, said preliminary checks had not established what caused patients to stop breathing.

He said investigators had not ruled out the possibility that the drug, Pavulon, was deliberately injected into patients. Investigators, he said, already have virtually ruled out accidental injections.

FBI sources said the agency entered the case because hospital officials feared the deaths were homicides.

The hospital also has restricted admissions, halted all nonemergency surgery and tightened security in the wake of the incidents.

Tappan Roof Disagreement . . . Both Sides Seek A Solution

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

The disagreement over the Tappen House roof—as opposed to the Senate House roof—will probably be worked out without too much controversy with both sides writing it off to “misunderstanding.”

The Tappen House is owned by Heritage Savings Bank which is restoring it and hopes to have it open this fall.

The bank, whose motto is “preserving the past, providing for the future,” is currently at odds with the Historic Landmarks Commission over what kind of roof should be put on the building.

In fact, a new roof—of the modern asphalt variety—is already on the building and that’s what the “misunderstanding” is all about.

Original specifications, arrived at after consultation with Landmarks, called for a wood shingle roof on the 270-year old building.

City Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe emphatically ruled against that although he said he would approve a “fire retardant” wood shingle roof such as the one now on the Hoffman House on North Front Street and as proposed for the Senate House.

The bank went back to the drawing boards and came up with a figure of some $10,000 (extra) for the roof as detailed by Radcliffe. It decided to go for the asphalt roof.

“We’re willing to accept the roof they’ve got on now,” said Herbert Cutler, chairman of the Landmarks Preservation Commission. “We could have been willing to accept it in the first place.” Cutler says the reason the commission objected to the (asphalt) roof is that the bank did not consult with the commission (as required by city ordinance) before putting it on.

Even at that the commission seems conciliatory. “They have a Poughkeepsie architect,” Cutler explained. “Perhaps he wasn’t entirely familiar with our regulations.”

Joseph Brady, president of Heritage Savings, is also optimistic that the misunderstanding can be worked out. “We’re in negotiation now,” Brady says. He says the commission objects to the color of the new roof. “We’re going to try to darken it up a bit,” he said. “We want to try and settle it.”

Landmarks would like to get this business of who has jurisdiction in the Stockade District settled once and for all and toward that end met with Mayor Francis R. Koenig and Radcliffe in Koenig’s office earlier today.

The ordinance states that no building permits shall be issued in the Stockade District bounded by North Front Street, Green Street, Main Street and Clinton Avenue without the approval of the Landmarks Commission. That law is not being enforced, charges the commission.

Bureau Campaign

HIGHLAND
The Ulster County Farm Bureau is mounting its annual campaign to attract new farmers to the organization.

There are presently about 200 farmers participating. The goal this year is to increase that figure to 225.

There are 52 farm bureaus in the state, with 18,000 members.

William A. Wilkow, a fruit farmer in Highland who is heading up the campaign, commented, “We can be proud of the fact that all vital work done for farmers through the Farm Bureau, on the county, state and national levels, really begins with farmers themselves.” Locally initiated ideas are put to a vote at the annual state meeting.

Couple Escapes Trailer Blaze

GLENERIE A Glenier couple was awakened with only moments to spare early today, as fire raced through their house trailer leaving total destruction in its wake.

"They narrowly escaped with their lives," one Town of Ulster constable said of Steven and Maureen Voigt, who were asleep when flames erupted in their North Drive trailer.

According to constables, the Voigts went to bed around 11 p.m. Shortly before 3 a.m., Voigt was awakened by a loud noise, and smelled smoke. Getting up to investigate, he was driven back by intense heat and flames in the end of the trailer opposite the bedroom. He awakened his wife, and both fled through a door in the bedroom.

After getting outside, Voigt attempted to go back into the trailer, reportedly to save some possessions, and sustained burns of the hands and arms, constables said. He was taken to Kingston Hospital, where he was listed in satisfactory condition after being admitted.

Ulster Hose firemen said that when they reached the scene, the trailer was totally engulfed in flames. Some 35

Ulster firemen, as well as volunteers from Glasco, were at the scene for nearly four hours.

Firemen said the cause of the blaze has not been determined. Constables said, however, that the fire was not suspicious, explaining that before retiring, the Voigts smelled smoke, but thought it was from a fireplace in a neighboring home.

Authorities today continued to seek 16-year-old Lori Jeanne Barmann of High Falls, missing since Tuesday morning when she left her home to go for a walk on Lucas Turnpike, but never returned.

The girl is described as being white, 5-feet, 2-inches tall, weighing about 165 pounds. She has hazel eyes and brown hair, and was wearing dungaree shorts and a plaid flannel shirt when last seen.

Authorities explained that there have been several reports from around the county of the girl being seen, but none have proved fruitful.

An autopsy has confirmed that Edward Mayone, 19, of Kingston, whose burned body was discovered in a wooded area in the Town of Denning last weekend, died of an overdose of heroin, according to authorities.

John B. Feltham, 17, of Kingston, who allegedly gave the drug to Mayone and who allegedly burned the youth's body after he died in an attempt to hide the identity of the body, was arrested on a drug sale charge in connection with the case on Monday.

Ulster County Sheriff's deputies arrested Glen E. Loyear, 17, of Duluth, Minn., early today on a charge of second degree grand larceny after he was stopped while allegedly driving a stolen car on Route 32 in Tillson. Deputies said the car was taken from the driveway of a Tillson residence.

Loyear was also ticketed for having no driver's license and operating without headlights. Following arraignment, Loyear was jailed in lieu of $2,500 bail.

In Kingston, fire Wednesday night in a concrete block trash building at Colonial Gardens destroyed 15 plastic trash containers and caused smoke and heat damage to the building. The cause of the blaze was not determined, according to fire officials.

Unemployment Payments Drop

KINGSTON

For the fourth straight week the number of Ulster County residents receiving unemployment benefits has dropped from a high of 6,105 to 5,466.

According to State Industrial Commissioner Louis L. Levine, the 5,466 recipients were reported the week ending Aug. 8, down 86 from the previous week's total of 5,552. Prior to that 8,887 persons claimed benefits.

The figures are not comparable with those of total unemployment in the state however.

The drop in the number of persons receiving benefits was noted statewide as well, with 732,285 claiming benefits the week ending Aug. 8 as compared with 748,156 the previous week.

The claims were made under four separate programs including regular extended benefits, emergency benefits, special unemployment assistance benefits and regular state claims.

The number of persons exhausting benefits under the Emergency Benefits Program totaled 3,304 in the week ending Aug. 8. The statewide cumulative number of persons exhausting the benefit rights under the Emergency Benefits Program, and consequently all eligibility for unemployment compensation, totaled 57,800 through the week ending Aug. 8.

Job Attrition Asked in Dutchess

POUGHKEEPSIE

With a major financial disaster in the form of a $5.8 million deficit on its hands, Dutchess County is being asked to implement a policy of attrition, look to job reduction, possibly eliminate or consolidate various departments or programs and curtail certain services that effect the least amount of people in the county.

Glenn P. Houghtalin, chairman of the Dutchess County Board of Representatives said he is calling on the county executive to initiate action that provides a thorough and precise set of plans to deal with the crisis.

For example, he will recommend that such levels of bureaucracy as the Youth Board, Office for the Aging and Social Services be consolidated and reduced. He also suggests the possible elimination or drastic reduction in the Office of Child Development, Traffic Safety Board, certain non-mandated health services, Real Property Tax Department, Civil Defense and "a host of other departments that could be reduced."

Houghtalin also advises that serious consideration be given to the implementation of the in-depth recommendations of the Joint Committee on Waste and Duplication that provide potential cost savings in the area of computer services, telephone services and duplication procedures.

Admitting that many of his proposals, if implemented or even seriously considered "would be unpopular with a segment of the population and even some politicians," Houghtalin feels that "the harsh reality that our overburdened taxpayer faces mandates that responsible elected officials take immediate and decisive action to meet this fiscal crisis head on and blunt it one and forever."

Camallonga's Resignation

Jose Camallonga Jr. cited "malicious intentions and political motives" in announcing his sudden resignation earlier this week as Ulster County's Superintendent of Highways.

However, despite what the former highway boss said, he, in fact, forfeited his right to the position by virtue of some questionable goings-on in his department.

Camallonga was the subject of an investigation by District Attorney rancis J. Vogt's office. Vogt revealed the probe showed inference of wrongdoing, but no criminal charges.

Since his resignation, Camallonga has had his case reopened by the DA's office and evidence was scheduled to be given to a grand jury today.

Camallonga's resignation does not mean that he is "off the hook." If evidence is found linking him to criminal activities, he will still be subject to prosecution.

By the same token, Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago's contention that because of the resignation the planned investigation of the Camallonga case should be dropped, should not become a fact.

The probe should be held to back or refute Camallonga's claim that he was the victim of malicious intentions and political motives or determine if he resigned because of the heat being sent his way due to some alleged questionable poor judgment on his part while serving as county highway chief.

Camallonga's resignation and the naming by Savago of three foremen — Paul Mecier, Richard Gray and Abraham Ellsworth — means the complex job of running the department will not stop and insures Ulster County residents of good service.

New Grain Sale

Housewives' who watch the totals climb on the tapes at supermarkets are not easy to convince that the Russian grain sale is a good deal for our economy.

Don't tell them it won't increase food prices. But it is a good deal — not like the one in 1972. That was a steal.

In 1972, the sale was on credit furnished by our government at the incredibly low interest rate of 6 1/8 percent. This sale is for cash. The Jackson amendment to the 1974 trade act prohibits credit to the Soviet Union until it changes its policies on Jewish emigration.

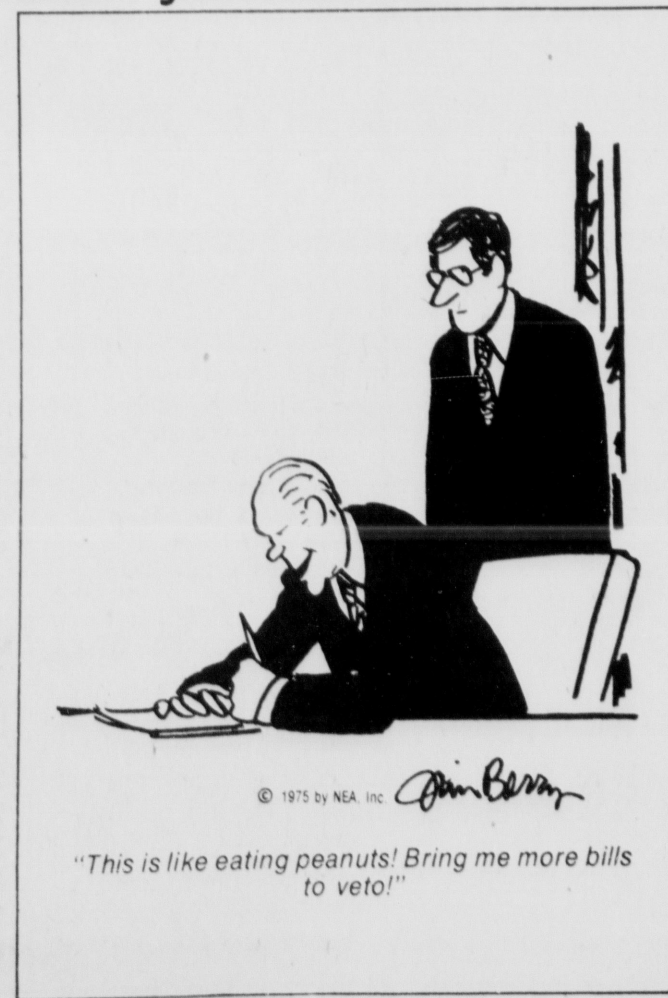

The 1972 sale was secret. Russian grain buyers hurried around the country buying up grain at low prices before anyone knew what was happening. That drove the market up too late to charge the Russians a fair price. This time the Russian purchases are being made on the open market at the market price.

About the only similarity with 1972 is that Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz was saying then as he is saying now that the sale won't necessarily mean higher food prices for the consumer. Of course, as a spokesman for the farmers, he may hope it does. And it almost certainly will.

But more important to the economy is the fact that the deal will bring in $1.8 billion to help our balance of trade. Soviet trade state bankers have been raising the money by selling gold in large shipments to the West in order to buy dollars.

The dollar is stronger around the world because of this grain deal.

Berry's World

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The story behind the disappearance of James Hoffa, according to our own investigation, has implications far more important than the fate of one man.

If our underworld sources are correct, Hoffa has been eliminated by the mob to protect its hold on the Teamsters Union.

This richest of all unions has been a gold mine for the mob. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been funneled from the Teamster pension funds into projects that have benefited the mob.

The Central States Pension Fund alone has assets worth more than $1.3 billion. Its investments range from Las Vegas gambling casinos to Florida hotels and condominiums.

There is grim irony in the Hoffa story. For it was Hoffa himself who struck an alliance with the mob back in his brawling, labor-organizing days.

He clawed his way to the top of the Teamsters Union, with the strong-arm support of the mob. In the late 1950s, a Senate investigation documented his close ties with some of the nation's most notorious mobsters.

This stimulated a federal effort to put Hoffa behind bars. The intent was to rid the Teamsters of racketeer influence. But the jailing of Hoffa in 1967, according to our sources, strengthened rather than weakened the mob's influence.

As these sources explain it, Hoffa was a strong leader who made deals with mobsters but was never dominated by them. When he went to prison, he left the union in the hands of a complaint surrogate, Frank Fitzsimmons.

Hoffa fully expected to continue running the union through Fitzsimmons. But the mobsters took advantage of Hoffa's absence to bolster their power within the union.

Fitzsimmons developed a cozy relationship, meanwhile, with then-President Richard Nixon who sought the political support of the powerful Teamsters. To the embarrassment of FBI watchdogs, for example, Fitzsimmons met with California mobsters in February 1973 and then flew back to Washington with Nixon in the presidential jet.

Our sources describe Fitzsimmons, nevertheless, as a passive rather than active tool of the mob. He hasn't abetted the mobsters, they say; he merely has been too weak to obstruct them. Meanwhile, racketeers have quietly taken control of some key Teamster locals and have tightened their hold on pension fund purse strings.

The racket bosses, therefore, didn't welcome the return of their old friend and ally, Jimmy Hoffa. They urged him to give up his ambition of resuming control of the union and offered to make it worth his while if he would retire, say our sources. "Become an elder statesman," the mob chiefs advised Hoffa. But he wouldn't listen. Fitzsimmons allegedly used his White House connections to arrange restrictions on Hoffa's parole. Hoffa was forbidden when he came out of prison from participating in union politics.

The two-fisted Hoffa still wouldn't retire. He put up a court battle to remove the restrictions and began making moves behind the scenes to regain control of the Teamsters.

Our sources, who have given us reliable information in the past, say the top mobsters held a dozen secret meetings with Hoffa in different parts of the country and tried to persuade him in a friendly way to give up his comeback attempt.

But the old bantam rooster "wouldn't listen to reason," say our sources sorrowfully. He was on his way to another meeting when he vanished. Our sources don't ever expect to see him again.

FOOTNOTE: Spokesmen for the Teamsters Union vigorously deny that mobsters have any influence over Teamsters affairs. The Justice Department is investigating pension fund transactions, however, for evidence of racket influence. There is a possibility that court-appointed monitors might be requested, as they were in 1958, to oversee the pension funds.

WATCH ON WASTE: The State Department fired off a curious, classified cable the other day to B rcelona, Belgrade, Bucharest, Copenhagen, Leningrad and Moscow.

These are the cities, apparently, where Speaker Carl Albert is taking a delegation of 18 congressmen and their wives. The cable explained cryptically that the accompanying Air Force escort officers were carrying ten $1,000 U.S. Treasury checks "to cover certain costs of the trip."

The cable asked whether "cashing checks in these amounts ($1,000) will be a problem." Apparently, it was not.

What is a problem, however, is finding out the purpose of this mysterious $10,000 allowance. No one at the Pentagon or State Department could explain to us exactly why the escort officers brought along the 10 Treasury Department checks. No one seemed to know what "certain costs" would be paid out of the $10,000.

We found out how the money won't be spent. No part of the $10,000, for example, will be handed out to congressmen as spending money. This will be distributed to them from counterpart funds — that is, local currencies belonging to the United States — at the rate of $75 a day for each congressman.

Nor will the $10,000 be used to offset the cost of operating the special Air Force jet ($2,200 per hour). We are assured the money also won't be spent on the 19-man Air Force crew, the four Air Force escort officers or the two State Department aides who are accompanying the congressional delegation.

We are told the plane travel will cost the taxpayers $64,900 and the daily expenses will run another $33,000. When we find out how the $10,000 was spent, we'll let you know.

RUSSIAN YEAST

By William F. Buckley

Although it is true that many pollsters are engaged in documenting that which anyone who gives the matter a little thought knows intuitively, still they have their uses, and are the tablet-keepers of the American sociological religion. Thus when George Gallup, the papal voice of the pollsters, declares one of his own polls to be "one of the most interesting" his organization has ever done, we should take notice; and I proceed to do so.

It is a poll directed at determining what it is that happens to college students between the time they matriculate, and the time they graduate. The technique is to ask students to use a "Stapel Scalometer" by means of which they can check off, on the affirmative side, approval ranging up to the intensity of plus five, down to plus one; and, on the negative side, disapproval ranging from an intensity of minus five, to minus one. After applying the poll in a number of colleges, Gallup came up with Oklahoma Christian College as the most "conservative" in student attitudes; and, as the most liberal, Princeton University.

A few preliminaries. College students are far more independent politically than college graduates — about 50 percent. Of the balance, they are registered two to one Democratic.

Now whereas it continues to be true that college students become more conservative after they leave college, it is also true that while at college, they become more liberal. Indeed, judging from the rate at which they do so, one would guess that if the undergraduate course at Princeton was eight years instead of four years, the majority of graduates would have views indistinguishable from graduates of the Lenin Institute. Consider. As freshmen, 30 percent of college students place themselves as left of center or far left, compared to 24 percent who place themselves as right of center or far right. The first figure, by the time senior year comes along, rises to 53 percent; the second dips to 20 percent. As George Gallup puts it, "a difference of six percentage points in favor of the far left thus becomes a lead of 33 percentage points in the senior year."

By the way, for those interested in useful constants, on the order of "As Maine goes, so goes the nation," here is one. The attitude toward capital punishment tends in almost every situation exactly to reflect the difference between liberal and conservative attitudes, numerically expressed. It is so in this poll. College students as a whole oppose the death penalty 59 percent to 35 percent. The students at Oklahoma Christian favor the death penalty 62 percent to 36 percent. At Princeton, students oppose the death penalty 80 percent to 13 percent.

Princeton is obviously going through a rather prolonged seizure of ideological eccentricity. Once bitten by that kind of thing, it becomes hard to shrug off. A couple of elections back, a faculty poll at Princeton showed that Dick Gregory and Richard Nixon were neck and neck in popularity for President (this is called donnish humor). Things do not appear to have changed. There isn't anybody at Princeton who is everyone's real genuine hero. The nearest you get to it is — you guessed it — Ralph Nader, with 45 percent of the vote. He is followed by Henry Kissinger and Justice William Douglas, with 28 percent and 24 percent. Then Teddy. Nelson Rockefeller only just noses out Fidel Castro. The most intensely disliked institution is the CIA, and shortly after, the Pentagon. The institution most intensively approved is — and truly, this hurts: the United Nations.

When you think of it, the story is very very old. Almost 25 years ago, I published a book about my own experiences as an undergraduate at Yale University, in which I remarked the paradox that sons of Christian conservatives were being inculcated in religious skepticism and political collectivism. Yale's response was never entirely consistent. On the one hand spokesmen for the university said that the young writer was vastly exaggerating the true nature of Yale education, on the other hand they were saying that Yale had every right to pursue whatever direction it chose.

The Princeton people, one gathers, attempt pretty much the same kind of thing. First they disparage as inaccurate such reports as Gallup's. Then they oppose, often by vicious tactics, the work of the dissenters among the alumni, in this instance the "Concerned Alumni of Princeton." One of these days somebody is going to ask the question: why, why, does private money support these breeding grounds of executioners? It is a settled convention that the state should pay the hangmen. Or perhaps it must be so, to justify the prophet Lenin, who saith that when the time comes, the capitalist will sell the hangman the rope.

Inside Report

Moynihan's Undelivered Speech

WASHINGTON — The State Department bureaucracy recently killed a blunt speech drafted by Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan and aimed at third world members of the United Nations, showing that the reality of U.S. isolation in the UN is not yet accepted at Foggy Bottom.

Even Dr. Moynihan's veto of UN membership for Communist North and South Vietnam was a surprisingly close call. Despite some opposition within the State Department, he got the green light to veto the two Vietnams in response to the UN Security Council's refusal to even consider membership for South Korea.

Moynihan had planned to accompany the Vietnam vetoes with tough talk relating them to the Korean exclusion. He drafted a speech noting that votes over the years on South Korea's membership in the UN had been supported by countries with multi-party systems and opposed by countries with one-party systems.

Moynihan's draft speech then delivered this message to the Communist and third world one-party nations: You cannot turn the UN into a one-party system by excluding the South Koreans and including the Vietnams.

Such realism is not objected to by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. But with Kissinger in Montreal for a speech on veto day, Aug. 11, the State Department bureaucracy succeeded in ash-canning the speech. Instead, Moynihan made a brief statement barely suggesting the outlines of the full speech.

The State Department's attitude reflects its congenital insistence on maintaining warm bilateral relations with individual countries no matter how roughly they treat this country in multilateral organizations. Moreover, in handling third world countries with kid gloves, Foggy Bottom seems to be living in a past world when U.S. strategy at the UN was aimed at maintaining majority support on key votes.

The harsh inevitability that the U.S. will be badly outnumbered on future UN votes means Moynihan may well resurrect his one-party speech. Beyond speeches, however, the U.S. may have to start pressuring individual nations to convince them that consistent anti-American votes could be costly for them.

Probable Israeli-Egyptian agreement in the Sinai will prevent a showdown of third-world efforts to expel Israel from the UN. But Ambassador Moynihan and the U.S. will face a tough test when the regular General Assembly session next month votes on a Communist-third world resolution calling for removal of U.S. troops from Korea.

The deepening New York fiscal crisis has turned site selection for the 1976 Democratic national convention into a real horse race between New York City and Los Angeles which could be decided by just how hard national chairman Robert Strauss pushes for New York.

As recently as two weeks ago, the Democrats seemed certain to go to New York for the first time since 1924. But the increasing prospect of New York City defaulting on its bonds has disturbed members of the convention site selection committee which meets in Washington for its final decision Aug. 27.

Despite assurances from New York officials that the city's problems will be resolved by next summer, many Democrats worry that their convention could be disrupted by a garbage strike or other disturbance. On a broader basis, they fear New York City's image of crisis and decline rubbing off on the Democrats.

California state chairman Charles Manatt made a strong Los Angeles pitch to Strauss recently over a lunch at the Del Mar (Calif.) racetrack. But two of Strauss's closest allies, Gov. Hugh Carey and state chairman Pat Cunningham, head the New York push. Strauss also remembers the respective response for badly needed pre-telethon funds this year from businessmen in the two states: New York, $300,000; California, zero.

A footnote: Next to Strauss, New York's biggest asset in the race with Los Angeles has been maverick Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., of California, who has not concealed his overwhelming lack of interest in who gets the convention. "If it weren't for Jerry Brown's attitude, I think I'd be for L.A.," one site selection committee member told us, adding that he now inclines to New York.

Chicken, Eggs and Produce Lead Bargains in Weekly Survey

Broiler-fryer chickens were comparatively good buys this week in 10 cities on UPI's regular survey of food prices in the United States.

Whole chickens were 47 and 49 cents a pound in Chicago and Buffalo, and 55 to 59 cents in eight other cities in widely scattered areas, compared with a 58 cent average during the base week last March. The week's high, 83 cents, was in Honolulu.

Grade A large eggs also were bargains in five cities: 53 to 59 cents in Jacksonville, Fla., Los Angeles, Cincinnati, Dallas and Little Rock. That's less than nickel apiece, well below the average of 77 cents a dozen during the base week.

The biggest bargains, however, were in produce departments. A consumer planning to freeze or can for the winter could find elberta peaches on sale for $3.99 to $4.99 for a 15- to 17-pound bag, and nectarines for 39 cents a pound in Minneapolis.

In Los Angeles, carrots were a mere 10 to 12 cents a pound, iceberg lettuce, 19 to 29 cents a head, and russet potatoes, 69 to 99 cents for a 10-pound bag.

Local sweet corn in Boston brought 79 to 89 cents for a dozen ears, plums and peaches were three pounds for $1, and zucchini and summer squash were 19 cents a pound. Thinly sliced, unpeeled zucchini makes a delicious substitute for cucumbers in salads; it is also good as a low-calorie snack, cut in chunks or sticks and served with seasoned salt or a low-calorie dip.

Beef continued high, said the weekly market report from the Consumer Education department of Cornell University's Extension Service. Specials were mostly on chuck cuts, but UPI's survey showed scarcely any on ground chuck. The low of 66 cents a pound was in Los Angeles, the high of $1.49, in Jacksonville, Fla.

Lamb supplies also were short, the Extension Service said, and government reports indicate this will continue. For budget stretchers, it recommended hard-boiled eggs, cheese and some canned fish combined with salad vegetables or fruit.

A five-pound bag of flour was 99 cents or less in 13 cities. The high of $1.19 in a mid-Manhattan supermarket in New York City was down 10 cents from the previous week, compared with an average of $1 during the base week.

A five-pound bag of a national brand of sugar was $1.37 to $1.39 in seven cities: San Diego, Los Angeles, Raleigh, Pittsburgh, Hartford, Birmingham, Ala., and Cincinnati. Even the $1.83 high in Honolulu was well below the $2.26 average in March.

Prices began to drop on apples as the new summer crop came to market to augment storage supplies. A three-pound bag of eating apples sold for only 69 cents in a San Francisco market, 21 cents below last March's average. At the annual marketing clinic of the International Apple Institute in Chicago, Fred Corey said this year's crop will be the largest in recent history, about 174 million bushels, or 7.3 billion pounds, up more than 12 percent from a year ago. Corey, director of market development, said 1973 and 1974 apple crops had been substandard.

"I would assume that prices will moderate downward (at retail)," he said. Corey added that inventories of processed apple products, including sauce, juice, cider and pie fillings, are larger than in the past two years, which should help lower prices.

Cross-Border Tryst Had Usual Results

TEL AVIV (UPI) — An Israeli girl soldier who slipped across the border to Syria for a two-day tryst with an Austrian U.N. corporal is three months pregnant a newspaper reported today.

The girl, 19-year-old Jeanette Farraj of Jerusalem said, "All that we ask is that they let us love and let us live," the newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth reported.

The newspaper said the couple wants to marry as soon as he can convert to Judaism.

She was tried in a military court last week and dismissed from the army on charges of visiting enemy territory and associating with Ernst Steinbrauer, a member of the United Nations peace keeping force, without permission.

Steinbrauer was dismissed from the Austrian armed forces when it was discovered that he and Miss Farraj spent two days behind Syrian lines in the Golan Heights city of Quneitra last March.

The couple was caught in his U.N. car by Israeli military police on the way back through Israeli lines.

The Austrian was sent home by the authorities, but he returned to Tel Aviv three days later.

The young lovers are currently working at a hotel in northern Israel.

Steinbrauer told Yedioth he planned to marry Miss Farraj, as soon as he converts to Judaism.

Miss Farraj told the newspaper she is three months pregnant.

New Test Set for State Police

KINGSTON — Gone are the days when a person will not qualify to become a member of the New York State Police simply because he or she does not measure up to a pre-set standard.

A unique testing procedure which took several years to develop will make it possible this year for persons never before eligible to become troopers to qualify for the position.

The testing procedure — the first of its kind in the country, according to the state police — eliminates many of the minimum standards of the past such as height and instead replaces them with totally job-oriented performance standards.

The test (which consists of both written and physical portions) is the result of a lengthy analysis of the different elements which make up the work of a trooper. The analysis revealed that there are more than 2,000 separate abilities required of a trooper on the job — and it is those abilities that will be tested in an upcoming written examination slated for Sept. 20 at various locations across the state and in subsequent physical examinations for the top 4,000 scorers on the written examination.

Those who pass the unique physical and a subsequent background investigation will make up the list of those eligible to become troopers. According to Zone Sgt. Daniel Scribner, in charge of a three-person recruiting team in the area which includes Troopers Claire Mulcahy and Gary P. Mail, there are expected to be some 40,000 candidates statewide this year. The most who will become troopers in the foreseeable future (no earlier than April 1, 1976) will be 400, Scribner said, explaining that appointments will be made to fill vacancies.

Members of the recruiting team will hold an informational meeting for those interested in becoming troopers at Ulster County Community College, Burroughs Hall, Room 420, on Friday, Aug. 22, at 7:30 p.m.

Under the new procedure, the first step toward becoming a trooper is to obtain an application form — available at the Friday meeting or at state police stations. They must be postmarked no later than Sept. 3 to gain admittance to the Sept. 20 written examination.

Recruiters explained that the written examination will consist of four parts. The major part of the test will consist of the following: candidates will be given a situation and from six to 13 alternatives as the action they think they should take in the given situation. They will have to choose what they think is the best and the worst action they can take.

"There is no correct or incorrect answer, per se," Scribner said, explaining that answers are graded in relation to how well they conform with answers which were given by a large group of current troopers who were chosen for their job performance to take the exam for comparison purposes. Other portions of the examination include self-evaluation by trooper candidates.

The physical examination will include such job-related tasks as climbing a 20-foot ladder, through a window or a hole in a ceiling from an apple crate on the floor, dragging a simulated 120-pound deer off the road, carrying 90 pound loadmeters, prying open a car door, and firing a gun over the top of a car. Scribner explained that the new physical replaces such set standards as minimum height, height-weight proportions, or even the necessity for a candidate to have all his or her limbs. Instead the candidate will be proving that he or she can do what may be required on the job.

The expected results: the best possible troopers, male or female, tall or short, heavy or thin.

Cane Completes Session

KINGSTON Len Cane, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County, recently completed the seventh year of the Institute for Organization Management at the University of Delaware.

More than 350 voluntary organization executives from 32 states and several foreign countries participated in the program, one of six annual one-week sessions sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at leading universities throughout the country.

Several options are open to Cane for next year. A three-year Academy for Organization Management is held annually at Notre Dame University and postgraduate study programs at Delaware are two of the considerations.

During the five-day session, participants spent 27 classroom hours in the institute course of study, designed to assist voluntary organization executives in improving the knowledge and skills they need to upgrade the effectiveness of their organizations.

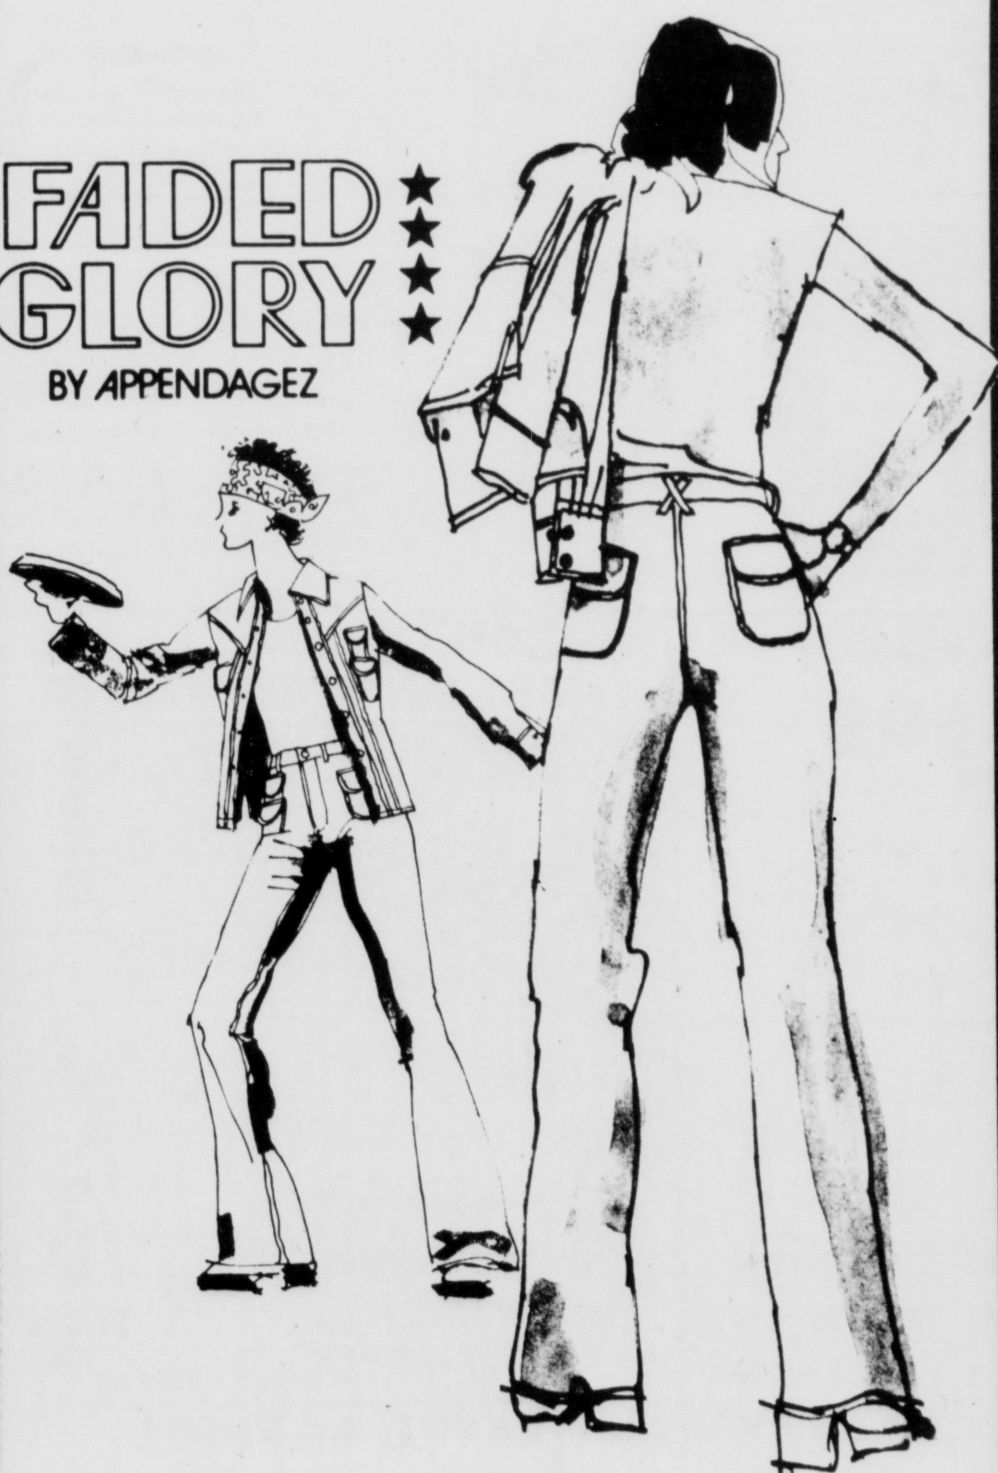

The curriculum includes management philosophy, economics issues, government, law, organization structure, contemporary issues, communication, interpersonal processes and environmental concerns. Each participant may attend progressive levels of the program throughout his professional career.

University professors chosen to lecture are distinguished authorities in their respective fields, with extensive university backgrounds. Additional courses are offered by top-level Chamber of Commerce and association executives, making the faculty unique in its depth and range of knowledge and experience.

Kravitz Praises Insurance Law

ALBANY
"Signing by Governor Carey into law a bill requiring life insurance companies to pay interest on settlement claims from the date of death or maturity to the date of claims is paid is another important victory for the consumer," according to Robert B. Kravitz, president of the New York State Association of Life Underwriters.

The bill is the second major item to be enacted of the New York State Association of Life Underwriter's 1975 consumer legislation program, Kravitz noted. The first, a bill guaranteeing group medical expenses insurance conversion privileges, already has been signed into law by Carey. It was one of the first of its kind in the nation.

Under the terms of the newly-signed bill, life insurance policy beneficiaries will receive interest on the amount of the settlement from the date of death of the insured person to the date the payment actually is made, with the interest calculated at the same rate the life insurance company pays on settlement options.

Kravitz pointed out the measure will mandate a practice now followed by some companies.

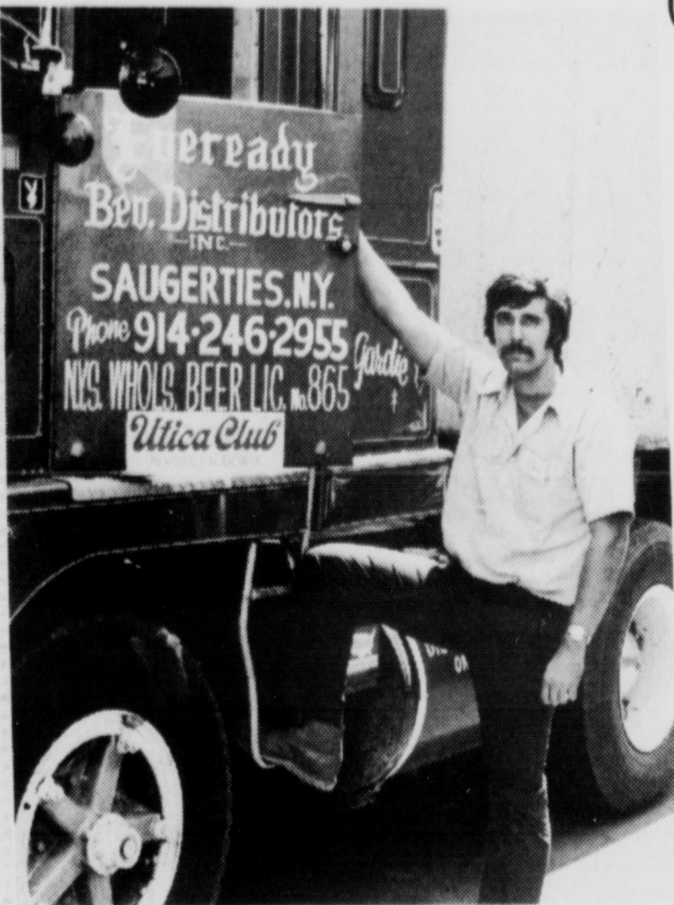

"It will be particularly effective in the case of group life insurance where generally no interest has been available to beneficiaries," he said. "In addition, some companies which have been paying lower interest would be required to pay the higher rate."

Happy 25th for Kingston Manager

Stewart Center Agreement Near

WASHINGTON, D.C. Following completion of the 60-day approval period, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has notified Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th) that it is finalizing the agreement to relocate the Animal and Plant Health Inspection center at Stewart Airport.

The USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) advised the House and Senate Agriculture Committees in June that it proposed to move its principal animal import center from Clifton, N.J., to Stewart Airport. The law requires 60 days notice to the committees before the agreement could be finalized.

The new, $5.4 million facility, to be located on 74 acres of land owned by the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, will more than triple the capacity of the old and outmoded center at Clifton, which has been in operation since 1903. It will handle health inspections and quarantines for more than 1,800 head of cattle, 800 horses, 300 zoo animals and 4,000 poultry each year.

The center will employ 25 persons full-time in addition to construction employment, Gilman noted, and will require about $500,000 worth of labor and materials from the local area each year. The center will need 600 tons of hay, 300 tons of other feeds, and over 45,000 gallons of fuel a year, Gilman reported.

"The decision to relocate this animal import center at Stewart is highly beneficial to our region, not only because of the construction and operation jobs it will generate, but because it is a major step in the orderly development of Stewart Airport and will have a positive impact on the economy of our region," Gilman said.

After being advised by APHIS that the Stewart site was under consideration for the new center, Gilman helped negotiate the MTA-USDA agreement for acquisition of the site, in a series of meetings in his Washington office last spring.

Group Favors Date Change

WASHINGTON, D.C. The House Committee on the Post Office and Civil Service has voted to restore Veterans Day to November 11th, Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th) reported last week.

Congressman Gilman had sponsored a similar measure in the House. The committee bill is expected to come to the House floor after the summer recess.

In committee, Gilman opposed delaying the effective date of the change, but the motion to delay the effective date to 1978 was approved.

"I have consistently and strongly supported this change," Congressman Gilman said. "This action will help restore some of the deep meaning our Veterans Day has lost since it became merely another three-day holiday weekend. Initially, we celebrated this holiday as an anniversary of the end of World War One. Since 1926, when Congress first established Veterans Day, it has had a profound meaning for all of us, helping us reflect and recall the dedicated service and courageous sacrifices made by our veterans in our nation's wars."

"In more than a half-century of observance on November 11th, great significance has been attached to this holiday," Gilman said. "It would be tragic to let all of that meaning and substance be forgotten in our haste to have just another three-day weekend."

Gilman noted that 45 states have changed their state observance of Veterans Day to November 11th.

Dr. Cooke Named Emergency Medicine Chairman

KINGSTON Kingston surgeon Dr. John A. Cooke has been named to the new position of chairman of the Department of Emergency Medicine at Benedictine Hospital, effective Aug. 1.

Robert J. Trinley, executive vice president at Benedictine, said that emergency department services have changed so dramatically over the past decade, largely as a result of the tremendous increase in the number of people using the facility, that the appointment of a professionally qualified physician to direct and supervise this activity had become a necessity.

In 1969, there were 8,959 emergency department visits at Benedictine. That number almost doubled in 1974 when 17,813 persons utilized the facility.

In addition, it is estimated that perhaps as many as 50 percent of the patients seen in the emergency room do not actually require emergency treatment, but use the facility due to the shortage of private physicians and their unavailability at certain hours of the day and night and at times due to the persons individual preference. The emergency room is also one of the main sources of medical care for transients, vacationers and campers.

Prior to 1967, the emergency department was staffed by Benedictine house physicians. In 1967, under the direction of Dr. John A. Olivet, medical director, three full-time, licensed physicians were retained to staff the facility.

Today, under Dr. Cooke's direction, six physicians provide 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week care at Benedictine's walk-in facility where a licensed physician is always on duty to handle routine medical care as well as acute emergencies.

In his new post, Dr. Cooke is responsible for the supervision, direction and development of the emergency department staff and will also provide a stimulus for continuing professional education as it relates to that department.

Dr. Cooke joined Benedictine Hospital's medical staff in 1949 and has served as its president as well as chairman of the Department of Surgery.

A graduate of Monticello High School, Georgetown University and Long Island College of Medicine, he presently serves on the advisory board of Benedictine Hospital and on the Benedictine Senior Citizens' Board.

A flight surgeon during World War II, he has been active in civic affairs.

HANS VAN DE BOVENKAMP

VAN DE BOVENKAMP'S PARKER TOWERS IN NEW YORK CITY

Tillson Artist Honored

Commissioned to Create Sculptures in Nebraska

An Ulster County artist, who defines his sculptures as monotone and monolithic in shape yet the relationship between the shapes creates a new image, is one of 10 American sculptors named as winners of a nationwide competition sponsored by Nebraska Interstate-80 Bicentennial Sculpture Corporation.

Hans Van de Bovenkamp, who resides at Box 837 in Tillson, is one of the 10 artists receiving commissions to create monumental outdoor sculptures for placement in 10 roadside park-rest areas along 455 miles out Interstate-80 in Nebraska.

Van de Bovenkamp and the other nine artists will serve as an artist-in-residence in a Nebraska community while work is in progress.

Announcement of the 10 winners was made known by Governor J.J. Exon and representatives of the Nebraska art, education and business communities.

Gov. Exon said "We are encouraged that this project will add a dimension of culture and grace for the I-80 traveler of the future. We hope it will inspire other states to seek out similar ideas that will enhance rather than detract from the natural environment."

The idea was originated in 1973 for what has been called a "455 mile sculpture gardens" and plans are for the completed sculptures to be unveiled in special ceremonies across Nebraska on July 4, 1976.

Van de Bovenkamp, a native of Holland, is no stranger in the matter of receiving commission for work sculpture work.

Just a few include Durado Beach Hotel, San Juan, Puerto Rico; Georgetown Plaza Building, New York City; Levitt Headquarters, Lake Success, N.Y.; Gas Light Tower, Atlanta, Ga.; Stony Brook University, Long Island; Jewish Institute for Geriatrics Care in Lake Success, Lobby 1500, Spruce Street, Philadelphia, Pa.; and Southpark Shopping Center Mall, Moline, Ill.

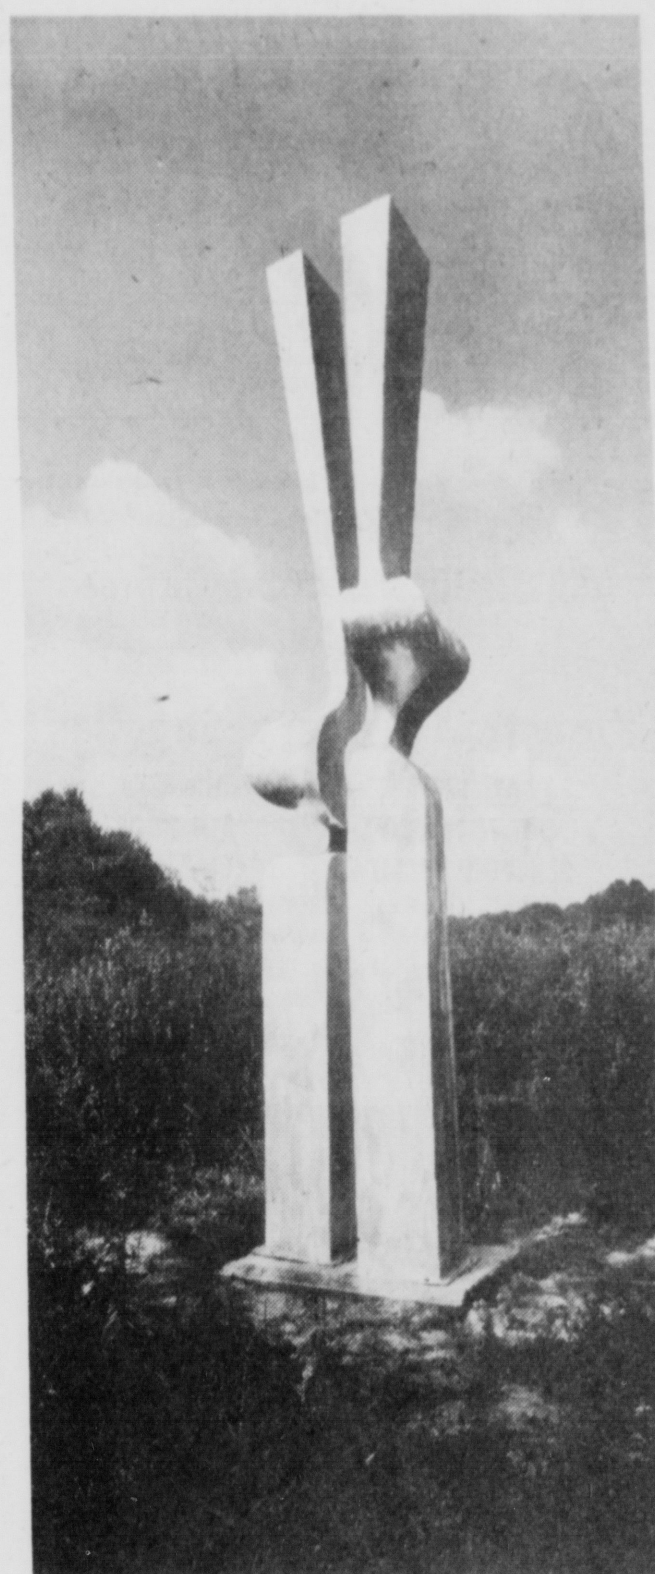

The Tillson resident attended the School of Architecture, Amsterdam, Holland and the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Holder of the Emily Lowe Award, 1964, Van de Bovenkamp is the designer of acclaimed series of contemporary fountains and has executed major architectural commissions throughout the country.

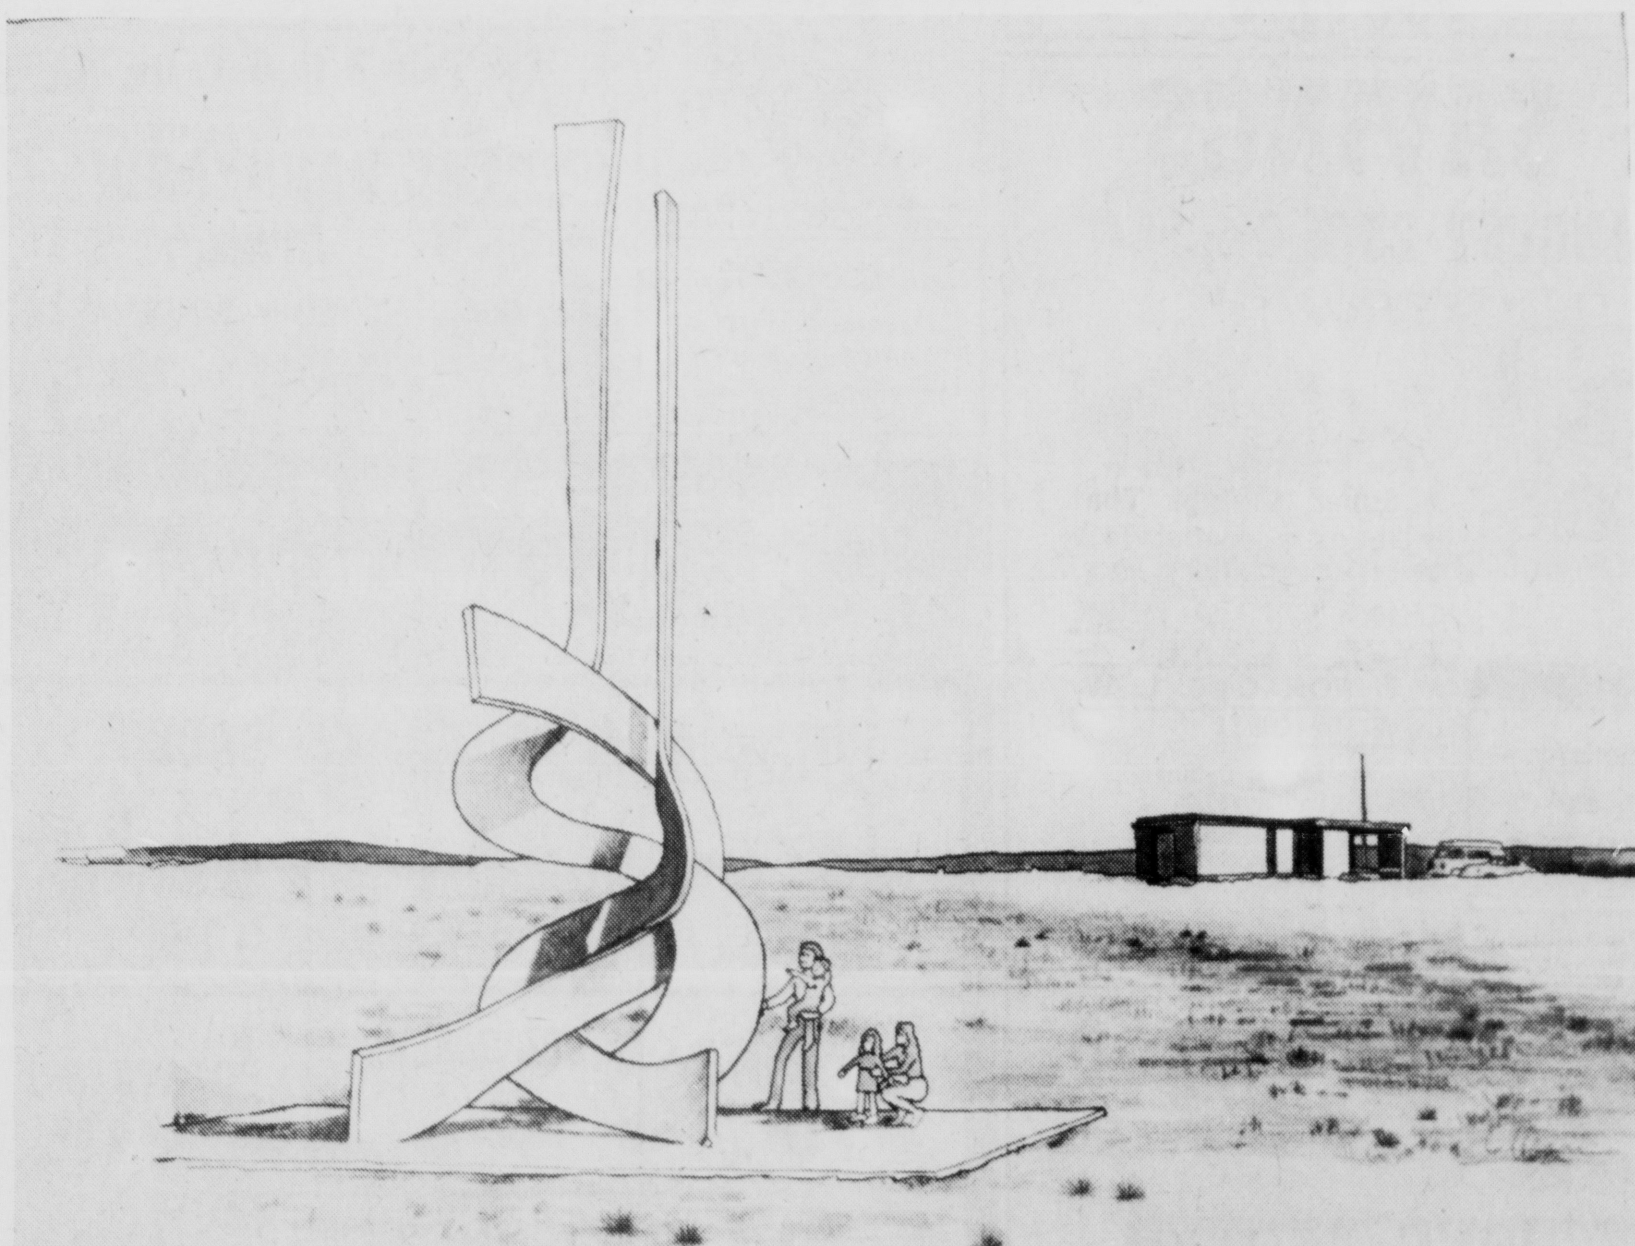

Van de Bovenkamp has exhibited his sculpture pieces at such exhibitions as New York University, Contemporary Arts Museum, Houston, Tex.; Glassboro State College, Tiffany's Loeb Student Center in New York; the New York Sculptors Guild, Benson Gallery, Bridgehampton as well as in this area of Ulster County Community College and the Storm King Art Center in Cornwall, N.Y.

This is an artist's version of Hans Van de Bovenkamp's "Roadway Confluence," — a 35-foot high aluminum sculpture — as it will appear, when completed, on the Sidney west-bound roadside park-rest area on Nebraska's Interstate-80.

Onteora Lions Host Fun-Filled Bavarian Festival

The weatherman didn't cooperate fully but it wasn't enough to dull the fun at the recent fourth annual Woodstock Bavarian Festival held at the Andy Lee Field in Woodstock.

The popular community event — sponsored by the small, but dynamic group of 14 men making up the Onteora Lions Club, was another big success.

All of the essentials in making this year's festival a hit were there — a goodly size turnout of patrons at this fourth annual event, plenty of good food, live music and of course, the sudsy stuff to quench the biggest of thirsts.

Of course, the Onteora Lions were prepared for any kind of weather. The festival was billed as going on come rain or shine. And even though there were some raindrops, the Lions were ready with their giant tent affording seating accommodations for some 500 persons.

Mike Mazanek, president of the Onteora Lions, can take a big bow for another well-planned festival.

As in the past, this late summer festival will help to carry on some of the major programs of the Lions — sight, youth, senior citizens, community improvement and ecology. Another major service of the Onteora organization this past year was the glaucoma-diabetes clinic held last April.

Judging from the recent fun-filled day of activities and the comments from those on hand in Woodstock recently the Onteora Lions can look forward to another well-attended crowd come festival time next year.

COOLING TIME FOR CHEF BOB SCHNELLER

Orangutan Seeks Ride: Object — 'Matrimony'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have always been a good friend to the Como Park Zoo, I am asking a favor of you.

We have a 5-month-old female orangutan named Joy who has been invited to the Los Angeles Zoo on a "breeding loan." They have a male orangutan named Guy whom they would like to mate with Joy.

Do you know anyone who has an air-conditioned automobile who would be willing to drive Joy and her foster parents (Arlene and Joe Scheunemann) to Chicago to board an airplane to transport Joy to L.A.?

Joy is small enough to be held in one's arms, she has good manners, and she would do no damage to the automobile.

JOHN FLETCHER, DIRECTOR
ST. PAUL COMO PARK ZOO

DEAR JOHN: If Joy is a "liberated" orangutan, she may not like the idea of going to L.A. to accommodate the male. If Guy wants a date with a sure thing, why doesn't HE fly to St. Paul?

On the other hand, if Joy WANTS to meet Guy in L.A., I will provide the child bride with air-conditioned transportation. And I hope she returns "heir-conditioned."

DEAR ABBY: My husband does sheet-rock work for a living. He makes good money, but he's always wanted to be an accountant, so he's been going to night school. He's young and smart, and will finish his accounting course next year.

The problem is that whatever we meet asks Carl what he does for a living, and when he tells them he does sheet-rock work, they say, "Oh, come and take a look at this hole in my wall," or, "I've been looking for someone to do that kind of work for me."

Carl and I both work five days a week, and we like to have our weekends together, but with all these sheet-rock jobs he has to do for friends, he's tied up.

How can Carl turn these people down in a nice way?

CARL'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Carl should simply tell them that he's sorry but he doesn't have the time. And he'd better start practicing that line while he's still in sheet-rock because when he becomes an accountant, he'll have even more "friends" imposing on him for favors.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to your column item about the person who loved to travel, but who invariably had a seat next to some longwinded bore.

I pretend I don't speak English!

It is a nearly fool-proof method I have used for years. When someone cranks up, I say: "No hablo ingles" or "J'n parle francaise," etc.

Of course I have to be careful that when the stewardess or bus driver comes by, I don't respond in English! I also don't have to be careful to conceal an English language book or newspaper, which is a dead giveaway. With these precautions, it works nearly every time.

One of my female friends discourages would-be conversationalists by removing her partial upper plate. A big, toothless grin in the direction of the offender is usually sufficient.

Folk Dance Benefit This Friday

A fund-raising event designed to underwrite the cost of sending two of the youngest members of the Novo Folk Dancers to a workshop in Connecticut is scheduled for Friday night, Aug. 22, at the Woodstock Town Hall.

The two members will attend the International Folk Dance Camp in Connecticut for a weekend of intensive workshops in folk dance and folklore. Teaching sessions at the dance camp will be led by well-known and usually native experts. Dances, styling and ethnic information brought back from the camp will be shared not only among Novo Folk Dancers but also among the Woodstock community and surrounding areas at future open sessions of folk dancing.

Friday's benefit will begin at 8:30 o'clock starting with the usual open session folk dance, followed by teaching of many simple and intermediate dances by Ron Sanders until 11 o'clock. Special dance requests will follow this part of the program. In addition, there will be a bake sale, awards and various ethnic entertainment.

The Novo Folk Dancers, who have performed frequently in the Mid-Hudson area, look forward to a fine turnout, not only to help them grow in expertise, but just to enjoy the fun of folk dancing. The dancers rehearse every Monday night from 7:30 until 9:30 at the Artists' Guild. The public is invited to attend these sessions as well.

A nominal fee will be charged for both adults and students at Friday's benefit.

Virdon Provides the Spark

HOUSTON (UPI) — One of the first things Bill Virdon noticed about the Houston Astros was their 31 one-run losses this year.

"Anybody can tell they lack the spark or whatever it takes to get over the hump," the new manager observed. And he didn't take long to try and correct the deficiency.

Throwing pitchers into the fray like they were pawns and pinch-hitting in some surprising situations, Virdon twice Wednesday night maneuvered his Astros to one-run leads in the late innings and finally gained his first Houston win, 5-4 over the New York Mets.

The first win didn't come easily due to the return of Mets first baseman Dave Kingman, who started his first game Wednesday since he sprained his big toe August 8. With Houston leading 3-0 in the seventh, Kingman blasted a towering three-run homer after Mike Vail was safe on Jerry DaVanon's error and Rusty Staub walked.

Houston scored what looked like a winner in the eighth when Greg Gross walked, Cliff Johnson singled and Jose Cruz, batting for Doug Rader, singled.

Virdon, although the result spoke for itself, eagerly defended his pinch-hitting for Rader.

"The thing you've got to get away from on a ball club is that you're belittling a player when you pinch-hit for him," Virdon said. "You're replacing him because the situation calls for it."

But the Mets, who dropped five games off Pittsburgh's lead with the loss, tied the game with a run in the ninth on singles by Jerry Grote, Wayne Garrett and Gene Clines.

Virdon used three pitchers in the ninth to try and prevent that run.

"I'll make changes quite a bit the rest of this season," Virdon said, "because I want to see them as much as I can. But let's don't forget, we want to win too."

His fifth hurler of the night, Jim Crawford, came on in the 10th to put the Mets down in order and, as it turned out, record his third win against four losses.

Then in the Astros 10th, Cesar Cedeño singled to open the inning and Cliff Johnson, who hit his 12th homer earlier, doubled to drive in the winner.

Now the Astros play 10 games in Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh and will try to improve on a 17-44 road record this year.

"I hope we can change that," Virdon said.

Bake McBride is off and running again and that can only mean more fuel for the St. Louis Cardinals' National League East pennant drive.

"He was flying, flat out flying around those bases," said winning St. Louis pitcher Ron Reed of McBride's leadoff eighth inning inside-the-park home run Wednesday night that sealed a 4-0 Cardinal victory over Cincinnati. It was McBride's second homer of the game and only his fourth this season. He had six last year, two of them inside the park.

The win kept the Cardinals within 2½ games of Pittsburgh, leaders in the National League East.

McBride, the 1974 rookie of the year, was slowed by injuries earlier this season while St. Louis was coincidentally mired 10 or so games behind in the NL East. But since Aug. 1, McBride has lifted his average nearly 20 points to .290 and has resumed his prominent role in the Cardinals' go-go attack.

"I didn't think it was going out," McBride said of his first homer of the night, a two-run shot in the fifth inning that put St. Louis ahead 3-0. As for the second one, McBride smiled: "I saw it hit the wall and then I saw (third base coach Vern) Benson signal me in," he said. "That's all."

Reed, meanwhile, a castoff from the Atlanta Braves, tamed the hard-hitting Reds on four hits to improve his record to 12-9.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh topped San Francisco 3-1, Philadelphia downed Atlanta 4-1, San Diego outlasted Montreal 8-6 and Los Angeles-Chicago were postponed by rain.

Pirates 3, Giants 1

Rennie Stennett's two-run eighth inning single snapped a 1-1 tie and carried the revived Pirates to their second straight win after six consecutive losses. Stennett's game-winning hit was preceded by singles from Richie Zisk and Manny Sanguillen and a double by rookie Craig Reynolds. Jim Rooker (9-9) gained the win with relief from Dave Giusti.

Phillies 4, Braves 1

Dave Cash delivered a pair of run-scoring singles while Larry Christenson and Tug McGraw combined on four-hitter, enabling the second place Phillies to remain one game behind Pittsburgh in the NL East. Christenson (7-4) went six innings while McGraw registered his 11th save. Cash accounted for the only runs they needed with run-scoring singles in the fifth and seventh innings.

Padres 8, Expos 6

A three-run double by Enzo Hernandez broke a 5-5 tie in the seventh inning, while Gene Locklear drove home four other runs as San Diego beat Montreal. Hernandez' game-winning blow came after losing pitcher Woody Fryman (8-9) had loaded the bases. Locklear had a three-run homer for San Diego in the fifth. Jerry Johnson, with one inning in relief of Randy Jones, got the win, his second in three decisions.

Ryan Is Back in the Groove

By UPI

There's really bad news for American League hitters today — Nolan Ryan's throwing smoke again and is almost "back in the groove."

Ryan, the California Angels' three-time AL strikeout king and author of four no-hitters, pitched his strongest game in more than two months Wednesday when he beat the Milwaukee Brewers 6-1. Ryan allowed three hits and struck out nine in 7.2-3 innings with Andy Hassler finishing up after the Brewers scored their run in the eighth on consecutive doubles by Bill Sharp and Robin Yount.

It was Ryan's strongest performance since June 6 when he blanked the Brewers on two hits and raised his won-lost record to 13-12.

"After the first inning I slowed down my delivery," Ryan commented after the game. "At times I had almost all my velocity but I still haven't gotten into my groove."

Asked if he thought he could win 20 games again this season, Ryan replied, "my record is the farthest thing from my mind; I just want to get in that groove."

Adrian Garrett hit a solo homer and Mickey Rivers singled in two runs to back the combined three-hitter by Ryan and Hassler. The loss was the Brewers' 16th in their last 20 games while the victory enabled the Angels to complete their best home stand of the season with a 9-4 record.

In his first start since Aug. 8, Ryan retired 19 consecutive batters during one stretch. He said he felt no ill effects from the groin and leg injuries which took him out of the rotation in recent weeks but that his elbow was "a little sore" in the later innings.

The Oakland A's defeated the Detroit Tigers 2-1, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Minnesota Twins 3-2, the Kansas City Royals topped the Boston Red Sox 3-1, and the Chicago White Sox downed the New York Yankees 5-3 in the other AL games.

A's 2 Tigers 1

Jim Holt hit his first homer in two seasons in the fifth inning and Billy North doubled home Phil Garner one out later to give the A's their triumph. Sonny Siebert and Jim Todd combined in a four-hitter for the A's with Siebert picking up his third win. Ray Bare was the loser for the Tigers.

Orioles 3 Twins 2

Tony Muser singled in the tie-breaking run in the seventh and the Orioles added another run in the ninth as Ross Grimsley went the distance for his ninth win against 12 losses. The Orioles picked up one game on the Red Sox and now trail the division leaders by seven games.

Royals 3 Red Sox 1

Rookie Dennis Leonard pitched a six-hitter and won his ninth game in out-dueling the Red Sox' Luis Tiant. John Mayberry hit two dubbles, scored one run and drove in another for the Royals. The loss reduced Tiant's record to 15-12.

White Sox 5 Yankees 3

Wilbur Wood pitched a six-hitter for his 13th victory despite a three-run homer by the Yankees' Bobby Bonds. Jorge Orta led the White Sox with a single, double and triple, scored three runs and drove in another. Rudy May suffered his ninth loss against 11 wins for the Yankees.

Yogi: 50-50 Chance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Yogi Berra said Wednesday there is a "50-50 chance" that he will be a coach next season for the New York Yankees — the team that fired him as manager in 1964 after he led them to an American League pennant.

"I have not received a concrete offer but I have had a feeler," Berra said. "I couldn't say yes or no on what I'll decide. I don't know."

Berra, fired two weeks ago as manager of the New York Mets, said Gabe Paul, general manager of the Yankees, called him with an informal offer — a "feeler."

"There's the whole rest of the season to go before I have to make up my mind," Berra said. "It would be premature for me to make a decision now."

Berra led the Yankees to an American League pennant in 1964 but was fired after losing to the St. Louis Cardinals in a seven-game World Series. He managed the Mets to the National League pennant in 1973 and lost to the Oakland A's in another seven-game Series. Berra, who signed a three-year contract with the Mets in 1974, will be paid at the rate of $70,000 a year through 1976 if he doesn't accept another job.

Beman's Pact Extended

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Deane Beman wanted a vote of confidence from the PGA. And now he has it.

The ten-member policy board of the PGA, four members of which are tournament players, announced Wednesday they had given Beman a five-year extension on his contract as golf's commissioner.

In his first 18 months on the job Beman exerted his authority to help divide the tour into three segments — an innovation that will begin next year. He jazzed up the World Series of Golf to the point where it will include as many as 24 players and is in the process of trying to make the "Tournament Players Championship" into one of the world's "major" events.

Feeling he had done a pretty good job, and wanting the PGA to go on record as saying it thought he was doing a good job, too, Beman opened discussions earlier this year with policy board director Lewis A. Lapham in an attempt to win a contract extension.

"I instigated the talks, but after I did the policy board carried the ball," Beman said Wednesday. "After 18 months in this job I wanted to know how they felt I was performing. I wanted to know if they had any reservations in the way me and my staff were functioning."

"I felt comfortable with my performance and I just wanted to know if they did, too. It was certainly not an ultimatum to them. I just wanted to know what my future was in golf."

The policy board took its vote on Tuesday and the choice was to wipe out the remaining 18 months on Beman's original three-year contract and give him a new five-year term beginning Sept. 1.

"This is a strong vote of confidence based on Deane's outstanding job as commissioner," Lewis said in announcing the board's decision.

Beman, who during his administration has signed a new television contract that will provide sponsors more money with which to run their tournaments, has recently began using his authority more and more.

He vetoed a proposed one-on-one match between Arnold Palmer and Johnny Miller because their appearance in such a contest on television would diminish the impact of televised tournaments.

"They didn't like the decision," said Beman. "But they concurred."

Beman is the second man to hold the office of golf commissioner. Joseph Dey was the first commissioner, but stepped down in favor of Beman in January of 1974.

Thrill of Victory

Melissa Belote gets a big hug from a competitor after she set an American record in the 200-meter backstroke during AAU Swim Meet competition Wednesday. Her time was 2:18.169 which beat her own record set in the 1972 Olympics of 2:19.19.

Shaw's Buddy Assists Record-Setting Effort

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — A buddy of Tim Shaw of the Long Beach Swim Club helped him to a world record Wednesday night in the National AAU Long Course Swimming Championships.

The 17-year-old sensation streaked the 400-meter free style in 3:53.317, improving his own mark of 3:53.95 set June 21 in Long Beach.

Shaw was pushed through-out the race by teammate Bruce Furniss, who finished in 3:53.997.

"Bruce and I have a very competitive relationship, we're good friends but also competitors," said Shaw. "I know each time we swim together I have to do my best because I know how good he is."

Three American records also fell in Wednesday night's finals.
Melissa Belote of the Solat

Swim Team improved her own record in the women's 200-meter backstroke with a 2:18.169 clocking. Her old mark of 2:19.19 was set in the 1972 Olympics.

John Naber of the Ladera Oaks Aquatic Club, sped the 200-meter backstroke in 2:02.521. He set the old standard of 2:02.83 Aug. 31 last year in Concord, Calif.

Marcia Morey of the Decatur Swim Club established an American record of 1:13.552 in the 100-meter breaststroke. The old mark was 1:13.58 by Kathy Carr in the 1972 Olympics.

The other winners in Wednesday night's finals:

Shirley Babashoss, of Mission Viejo Madadores, in the 400-meter women's free style in 4:15.631; Rick Colella of the Totem Lake Swim Club in the 100-meter breaststroke in 1:05.952; Camille Wright of the Louisville Tarpons in the 100-meter butterfly in 1:02.902; and Steve Baxter of the Santa Clara Swim Club in the 100-meter butterfly in 1:05.293.

It's Esopus vs. Ulster

KINGSTON — The Town of Esopus Indians won the right to face the Ulster Giants in Friday's finals of the District 6 Little League Round Robin Tournament with a 7-3 victory Wednesday over Montgomery Wards of the Kingston American League.

The Indians scored three times in the third inning to take a 5-3 lead. That was more than enough to get the job done as winner Gary Foster, who had given up three runs in the first frame, went on to fire five straight scoreless innings enroute to a four-hitter.

Leadoff batter Rich Letus got the winners off to a good start when he slammed the second pitch Chuck Massa threw over the fence for a home run. Esopus added another then lost the lead briefly when Wards scored all its runs in the home half.

Errors played a key part in the scoring for both teams, but Esopus made fewer mistakes. The Indians also banged out 11 hits in the game, two each from Letus, Foster, John Loughlin, Greg McGrane and Brent Spoth.

Tony Fuoco doubled and singled to lead Wards' hitting. Massa also belted a two-bagger in the losing effort.

Both teams gained the semifinals with victories Monday. Esopus knocked off the Jaycees

Giants Deal Ron Hornsby

PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y. (UPI) — Middle linebacker Ron Hornsby was to join Green Bay today after the N.Y. Giants traded him to the Packers for a 1976 draft choice.

Hornsby, 26, was a third round draft pick in 1971 after starting at Southeastern Louisiana. He was a starter for the first two years of his pro career, but was hampered by injuries thereafter.

The 6-3, 218 pounder did not seem to figure much in coach Bill Arnsparger's plans for the Giants this season in view of the improvement shown by Brian Kelley and Bob Schmit. The Packers on the other hand needed a veteran middle man when Jim Carter broke his leg.

The draft pick the New York club will receive was not determined, but will reflect the amount of Hornsby's worth to the Packers during the coming season.

New Jersey LL Advances

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — Dion Lowe pitched a five-hitter Wednesday to lead Lakewood, N.J., to a 2-0 extra-inning victory over Northridge, Calif. in the semifinals of the Little League Championship Series here.

George Starr started Lakewood's winning rally in the seventh inning by drawing a walk, one of four issued by losing pitcher Craig Stevenson who struck out 15 while yielding only five hits.

Starr moved to third on a passed ball and a wild pitch and scored when Wayne Richardson hit into a fielder's choice. Scott Schulman drove in the other run with a single to right field.

Lakewood will play for the title Saturday against the winner of Thursday's Tampa, Fla.-Davenport, Iowa game.

In the Little League girls' softball semifinals earlier Wednesday, Medford, Ore., eliminated defending champion Tampa, Fla., 3-2, on Shelly Jacobs' three-hitter.

Medford will play for the championship on Saturday against the winner of Thursday's game between Dix Hills, N.Y., and Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

Triangles, Gaters in WTT Finals

FRANCISCO (UPI) — The best-of-three World Team Tennis championship series opens Thursday night at San Francisco's Cow Palace with the Pittsburgh Triangles, winners of the East, favored to knock off the host Golden Gaters, surprise winners of the West.

The Triangles took the East by sweeping Boston two straight in the division playoff series while the Gaters beat the defending champion Phoenix Racquets two straight in the West.

Evonne Goolagong, second in the league in singles play with a .632 percentage, is the Triangles' top female player while Betty Stove, fifth in ladies singles, tops the Gaters. In men's singles, Mark Cox of Pittsburgh was second at .564 with Tom Okker of the Gaters third at .532.

As a team, though, Pittsburgh had an impressive 36-8 won-lost record for the year with Golden Gate at 29-15. In play between the two, the Triangles led, 4-1, and for that reason have been installed as the favorites.

The second match in the series is scheduled for Sunday afternoon in Pittsburgh and it will be televised nationally. The third game, if necessary, also will be played in Pittsburgh, on Monday night.

For Bjorn Borg

What a Difference a Year Makes

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — What a difference a year makes—just ask Bjorn Borg. Borg, the blond Swedish teenager with the devastating backhand, was the darling of tennis fans last year while establishing himself as one of the game's top players.

But this year, he's the favorite and the once faithful crowds have found other underdogs to cheer for.

Such was the case Wednesday night as he polished off Hans Jurgen Pohmann 6-1 in the first set of their match, his first here since winning the U.S. Professional Tennis Championship a year ago.

So when Pohmann, a member of the German Davis Cup team, rallied in the second set, the capacity crowd came to his support.

It was to no avail, however, as Borg, the second seed, broke a 5-5 tie to take the next two games, the set and match, 7-5.

"Maybe they (the fans) want to see me lose," he said. "It's been the same elsewhere. I've been winning so many matches that everyone is starting to root for the other player because he's the underdog."

It wasn't much of a day for underdogs all around though, as all but one seed advanced.

France 6-1, 6-4.

Australian Cliff Drysdale pulled off the one upset, eliminating 15th seeded Cliff Richey 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Czech Jan Kodes, seeded 11th, survived a scare from UCLA sophomore Ferdie Taygen Wednesday, fighting to 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, victory.

Stan Smith had little trouble with Germany's Hans Plotz in the first set, taking it 6-3, but lost the second 6-7, before coming back to win the third set and the match 6-2.

Harold Solomon, the ninth seed, took the first set from Antonio Munoz of Spain, 6-2. Munoz then turned the tables in the second set, winning 2-6 before Solomon came back to shut him out 6-0 in the third.

There was an upset in doubles play, with top seeded Manuel Orantes and Juan Gisbert being upset. Eddie Dibbs and Harold Solomon knocked off the favored pair 4-6, 6-0, 6-3.

Connors Ignores Pain

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (UPI) — The stomach cramps Jimmy Connors felt during third round play at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club may have hurt but not enough to stop the No. 1 seeded player from advancing to the quarterfinals of the $50,000 Tennis Week Open Tournament.

"I didn't feel too good out there," said Connors Wednesday after scoring another straight-set victory in a match with veteran Australian Dick Crealy. "But I felt better after the break."

Connors was allowed to leave the court for a few minutes during the first set to recover from the sudden attack and returned for a 7-5, 6-4 victory over Crealy. The No. 1 seeded player beat Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., 7-5, 7-6 in the first round.

Vijay Amritraj of India, who could be Connors' quarterfinal opponent if he gets by Nikki Spear of Yugoslavia today, was impressive in a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Rolf Thung of The Netherlands. Spear won his suspended first-round match over Rick Fisher of Palo Alto, Calif., 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Ilie Nastase of Romania, seeded No. 2, faces 1973 winner Colin Dibley of Australia in today's feature second-round match. In other matches Anand Amritraj, Vijay's older brother, goes against Australian Geoff Masters. Bob Hewitt of South Africa meets Clark Graebner of New York, and Ross Case of Australia plays South Africa's Ray Moore.

Connors, explosive on a grass surface, proved that his blasts were just as decisive on clay. When he returned to the court with the score tied at 5-5, he quickly got the decisive break in the 11th game. The lone service break in the second set came in the fifth game and Connors nursed the lead the rest of the way.

Case and Masters, who just finished playing WTT with Los Angeles, came through with victories in their first matches Wednesday. Case defeated Kjell Johansson of Sweden in three sets, 7-6, 0-6, 6-3 and Masters conquered Harald Elschenbroich of West Germany, 6-3, 7-6.

Hewitt and Moore hung up triumphs with Hewitt disposing of Marty Robinson of Great Britain, 6-2, 6-2, and Moore beating Sherwood Stewart of Baytown, Tex., 4-6, 6-3.

Connors was joined in the quarterfinals by collegiate star Vic Amaya of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Hungary's No. 1 player Balazs Taroczy. Amaya, who plays No. 1 singles for the University of Michigan, ousted John James of Australia, 6-3, 6-2, and Taroczy eliminated Henry Bunis of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-2.

Easy Win for Fromholtz

RISON, N.Y. (UPI) — Australian Dianne Fromholtz gave a 40 minute power tennis display Wednesday night, losing only one game, in overpowering Betsy Nagelson of St. Petersburg, Fla., 6-0, 6-1, in the $75,000 Westchester Women's Tennis Classic.

The only loss for the 19-year-old lefthander from Sydney was the fourth game in the second set on Miss Nagelson's service which was tied at ducece three times before she lost the serve.

In the next three games Miss Fromholtz lost only two points in racing to victory and putting her in the fourth round against Linky Boshoff of South Africa Thursday.

A crowd of about 1,000 turned out for the match that pitted Miss Fromholtz, the one-time protege of Margaret Court, against her 17-year-old American opponent and an understudy of Billie Jean King.

In other games, Virginia Wade of Britain, the second seed in next week's U.S. Open, had an easy win over Czechoslovakian Renata Tomanova, 6-1, 6-4.

Miss Wade's second round victory pits her against Isa Fernandez of Colombia who beat Rosemary Casals of Sausalito, Calif., 6-3, 2-6 and 7-5.

Linky Boshoff of South Africa beat Jenny Dimond of England, 6-1, 6-1.

Second seed Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia had no trouble Monday in disposing of Julie Anthony of Palo Alto, Calif., 6-1, 6-4.

Beth Norton, the Fairfield, Conn., 18-year-old U.S. girls champion, was knocked out of the tournament by Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia, who won 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

New Drop League

An organizational meeting of the New Drop Bowling League will be held Tuesday, Aug. 26 at 8 p.m. at Mid-City Lanes. New members are welcome.

You can also fail it with your eyes closed.

We call it the Utica Club Bar Exam.

You'll call it a nice test. Because if you fail it, you'll just have to take it over again. Until you get it right.

Here's how it works. Take any two beers of your choice. And one of ours. Utica Club. Pour them all into mugs. Have someone blindfold you (or at least mix the mugs up) just to make sure you taste the beers, not the labels.

Now, taste. Which one would you move to the head of the class?

In tests like this conducted in colleges in upstate New York, Utica Club was preferred more often than not.

Much to the surprise of everyone, except us.

Because we know the things that go into a Utica Club. The water that's good enough to bottle and sell by itself. The ingredients that cost a little more but make our beer worth a little more. And the most expensive ingredient of all: extra time.

If you picked out the Utica Club, we both pass. If you picked another beer, we fail. If you couldn't pick anyone out, try again. And don't fail to notice that your favorite beers didn't taste better to you than our favorite.

Why did you have to be blindfolded to find out how good Utica Club is?

Sometimes, the best way to open your eyes is to close them.

Namath Doubtful for Giant Game

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — There was still a good deal of doubt today whether Joe Namath would be able to play quarterback for the New York Jets Sunday against the New York Giants in a pre-season game at New Haven, Conn.

Namath suffered a muscle strain in his ribcage last week and said Wednesday that he still had quite a bit of pain in the area. The main thing for him is to be with his father and not to have to worry about the team.

"But with Joe still not fully recovered from his injury, we has been given permission to return home for as long as necessary," said a Jets spokesman. "He told (Coach) Charley Winner that he'll get back as soon as possible, but he has been told to take his time. The main thing for him is to be with his father and not to have to worry about the team."

"But with Joe still not fully recovered from his injury, we have a problem at quarterback and it looks as if J.J. will draw the starting assignment."

Jones, 6-foot-1 and 180 pounds, earned a job with the Jets last season after walking into camp and asking for a tryout. He was a starter during the players' strike last summer and was put on injured reserve for the year just before the season started after injuring his back.

Last week, the former Fisk (Tenn.) star came off the bench in the final pre-draft engineer the Jets' winning touchdown drive over the Cardinals.

The Jets placed three players on waivers Tuesday to get down to the 55-man National Football League limit. A fourth name has been filed with the league office and will be announced today.

Waived were Mike Bartoszek, a rookie tight end from Ohio State and a 17th-round draft choice; Bill Ferguson, veteran linebacker from San Diego State who was a three-year veteran and the Jets' fourth round pick in '73; and Joe Schmiesing, a defensive tackle with eight years pro experience who was acquired on waivers just before last season.

Sport Club Wins, 3-1, Over Dalton Memorial

KINGSTON — There was one game played in the Hudson Valley Soccer Association Wednesday night, and it was a good one. In it, the Kingston Sport Club wrestled a 3-1 decision from Chick Dalton Memorial.

One other contest was scheduled, but Garraghan Oil forfeited the National Division match to Maennenor.

Several of the KSC players spent a few weeks in England earlier this summer picking up tips at a British soccer camp.

It evidently paid off as the winners stormed back from a 1-0 deficit with some strong team play.

Tom Byers put Chick Dalton out in front in the first half.

Conrad Earnest shut off the KSC goal after that however, while his teammates got their offense rolling.

Bob Berkely drilled a kick to tie the game before the intermission. As the second half got underway, Bob Bowers netted the go-ahead shot, and Jim Reffelt clinched it with the third KSC score.

MHSA President George Vizvary called the game "the best played game of the year. The style of England was very evident in the Kingston team."

Vizvary also announced an addition to the roster of coaches who will face the all stars of the MHSA's Colonial and Metropolitan Divisions Saturday at 5 p.m. at the Chambers School field in a special exhibition game. Vizvary said that the league president would be in the coaches' lineup, but he would not say for how long.

Vizvary is penciled in the center fullback slot. He has some experience at that position, having once labored there for the Hungarian National Team.

Former Davis Cup tennis star Francis X. Shields, ('52 photo) collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack Wednesday in New York City. He was 64. Shields was the nation's topseeded player in 1933 and was captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team in 1951 and later served on the Davis Cup selection committee and then turned to golf and won several amateur tournaments. ## Dutchess Bi-Valley Champions HYDE PARK — Jim Nash's Dutchess County YMCA Piranhas swallowed seven BiValley swim teams to capture the 1975 league championship with a total of 492 points. More than 1,271 entries struggled through the two day marathon.

The team results: Dutchess County YMCA..... 492
Red Hook..... 245
Hyde Park..... 194
St. Mary's Wappingers... 170
Middletown YMCA..... 157
Spratt Park..... 120

Salisbury..... 70
Pawling..... 25

Leading the YMCA charge were four triple winners: L. Punt in the freestyle, backstroke and breaststroke; L. Markson, free, breast and IM; J. Pacio, breast, fly and IM; B. Horgan, back, fly and IM.

Other triples were recorded by Red Hook's Liz Fritz in the backstroke, fly and IM. Spratt's Mark Connell achieved the hat trick in freestyle, backstroke and IM.

Ann Hoch and Tom Rancich of the Sea Raiders were double winners.

Dutchess racked up its 492 points with 30 first places. Red Hook had 12, Middletown 5, Spratt Park 4, Hyde Park 3, Wappingers 3.

The YMCA swept two events. Red Hook slammed two gold medals in four freestyle relays, with the YMCA and Hyde Park grabbing a pair. Wappingers Falls took the 10-and-under boys 200 meter relay.

The Dutchess team will continue the year-round competition in AAU meets, while St. Mary's of Wappingers Falls and the Middletown YMCA resume competition in November in the Empire State Winter League.

Past champions in the BiValley League were: 1972-Hyde Park; 1973-Red Hook; 1974-Red Hook.

U.S.-U.S.S.R. Against Environmental Warfare

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States and Soviet Union today introduced the draft of a new international arms control treaty to prohibit all means of environmental warfare.

Parallel English and Russian language texts of the proposed treaty were presented to the 30-nation Geneva Disarmament Conference.

In its operative article, the draft treaty would ban any hostile modification of the earth's environment that could cause "widespread, long-lasting or severe effects harmful to human welfare."

Another article states that all nations should agree to outlaw "deliberately manipulating the natural processes of the earth, oceans and atmosphere" for hostile purposes.

Care was taken by the two major powers, however, to include a clause permitting environmental modification techniques and research for peaceful purposes such as the seeding of clouds to produce rain in drought-stricken areas. No reference is made in the two identical treaty texts of defoliants such as those used by the United States in Vietnam.

While the Soviet Union argued that such means of warfare should be included in the treaty, western experts argued that defoliants would not come under the category of war methods having "widespread, long-lasting or severe effects harmful to human welfare."

American officials said the proposed treaty is preventive in nature rather than being an attempt to eliminate weapons already existing.

Joseph Martin Jr., the chief U.S. delegate at the Disarmament Conference, said it is better to prohibit means of warfare before time, energy and money are invested in their development.

This places the proposed treaty—termed "En-Mod" in disarmament language—in a similar category to previous pacts prohibiting the emplacement of nuclear weapons on the ocean floor or in outer space.

Hypothetical environmental war techniques could include the triggering of tidal waves through nuclear explosions in the sea, using such tidal waves to destroy dams, setting off earthquakes and even attacking the climate of a region by changing ultraviolet radiation through modifying the ozone layer of the atmosphere.

Finds Big Diamond At Arkansas Mine

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (UPI) — A retired maintenance man scrounged through the hard soil and came up with a 16.37-karat diamond, the largest stone found in more than 20 years at the only diamond mine site in North America.

W.W. Johnson, 62, of Amarillo, Tex., found the diamond Wednesday after two hours of digging at the Crater of Diamonds State Park.

"They had a big rain, see, and it washed the point out," Johnson said. "The sun hit it. I went over and just dug it out with my fingers."

But the diamond, which Johnson decided to name the "Amarillo Starlight," may not make him a rich man.

Depending on the quality, gem experts said, the diamond's value could range from less than a few hundred dollars to many thousands of dollars.

A spokesman for the state Parks and Tourism Department said the diamond was a clear, white gem and appeared to be flawless. He said it was comparable to the Star of Arkansas, which was found at the diamond mine in 1957 and last sold for $85,000.

Johnson still had his hopes. "I just guess if I can get a pretty good price — I'm a poor man — I guess I will sell it," he said. "And I might buy me a home down in Arkansas."

Some U.S.-Cuban Sanctions Are to Be Lifted Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department will announce today the partial elimination of U.S. economic sanctions against Cuba which have been in effect for more than 10 years, official sources said.

Henceforth, overseas subsidiaries of U.S. manufacturers will be permitted to sell to Cuba, the sources said. But the ban on exports directed to Cuba from plants within the United States will continue.

The U.S. announcement, expected to later in the day, also will eliminate the prohibition against merchant ships of any nation which have stopped in Cuba from being refueled in any U.S. ports.

The steps are part of a gradual movement towards restoration of normal relations with premier Fidel Castro's communist regime. The United States placed a trade ban on Cuba in 1962.

The Organization of American States (OAS), with support from the United States, recently voted to remove its ban on members' relations with Cuba.

Sentiment within the OAS for the movement toward more normal relations with Cuba has grown steadily. The United States is following that general trend, but President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger have warned that this country will move by degrees instead of immediately.

Castro recently returned $2 million in hijacked ransom money to Southern Airways as a gesture of goodwill in his desire for better relations with the United States.

Castro has voiced that desire in recent meetings with members of Congress in Havana meetings.

Use of Force 'Folly' In Breaking Embargo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A military strike to break an oil embargo would be a policy with scant chance of success, according to a Library of Congress study released today by Rep. Lee H. Hamilton (D-Ind.).

As chairman of a special investigating subcommittee of the House International Relations Committee, Hamilton had asked the Library of Congress to look into the options "designed to secure access to oil in the event of an air-tight oil embargo" by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

He said the study concluded a military operation "would combine high costs and high risks, would be unlikely to succeed and would, in the event of failure, cause this country grave consequences."

Hamilton said, "The folly of such military operations is clearly evident."

Hamilton said he asked for the study because he was "disturbed by several articles and statements, some by high-ranking officials of the U.S. government, which speculated on such military operations in the event of a crippling oil embargo."

Business Week magazine had asked Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in an interview Jan. 2 about possible use of military force in connection with oil pricing problems or with an embargo. He was quoted as saying that would be a "dangerous course" and he considers that "it is one thing to use it in the case of a dispute over price. It's another where there is some actual strangulation..."

The study, prepared by John Collins and Clyde Mark of the library staff, said that to succeed, a military strike to break an embargo would depend on two factors: doing little damage to oil producing and processing equipment, and also on the absence of Russia from the fray.

"Since neither essential could be assured, military operations to rescue the United States, much less its key allies, from an airtight OPEC embargo would combine high costs with high risks wherever we focused our efforts," they wrote.

They said that even if non-military factors — economic, political, social, legal and moral — were "entirely favorable," a successful mission would have to meet five goals: "seize required oil installations intact; secure them for weeks, months, or years; restore wrecked assets rapidly; operate all installations without owners' assistance, and guarantee overseas passage of supplies and petroleum products."

Charges U.S. Steel Circumvents Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Steel attempted to circumvent government cost control rules on 19 defense contracts totaling $18.4 million, a government official has disclosed.

According to Arthur Schoenhaut, executive secretary of the Cost Accounting Standards Board, the nation's largest steel producer also recently refused to agree to five contracts on materials for the U.S. Navy's Trident nuclear submarine.

The company supplied the required steel plates and other elements for the Trident to the Electric Boat shipyard at Groton, Conn., without signing final contracts, Schoenhaut told the Joint Committee on Defense Production Wednesday.

David M. Roderick, president of the United States Steel Corporation, was expected to quizzed about his company's effort to skirt government accounting standards during his testimony today before the House-Senate panel.

And Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, "the father of the nuclear submarine" and a prime mover in instituting rigorous accounting standards in defense contracts, was to present his views at the second day of hearings.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) and vice-chairman of the panel, said Wednesday U.S. defense industries could blackmail the federal government into relaxing its accounting standards by withholding vital supplies for defense production.

He estimated the accounting standards could save the U.S. taxpayer up to $3 billion annually.

Proxmire criticized the Defense Department for acting "like kind of a patsy" in agreeing to waive the regulations at U.S. Steel's request.

However, the Cost Accounting Standards Board denied the waiver request by the corporation.

The skydiver, Daniel Fern, 49, of the Bronx, told police he had intended to land at Lincoln Center but was thrown off course when he caught his foot in the door of the plane just before he leaped at 10,000 feet.

poration which is the sole supplier of the requested Trident parts.

Dr. John J. Bennett, Acting Assistant Secretary of Defense for installations and logistics, said the Defense Department "does not have the clout" to make defense industries conform since they can appeal requests for waivers up to the Costing Accounting Standards Board.

Bennett conceded that the interest of the Joint Committee on Defense Production and unfavorable publicity had played an role in persuading U.S. Steel recently to back down and agree to cooperate.

Carey Asked to Lift Prisons' Austerity

ALBANY (UPI) — Gov. Hugh L. Carey will be asked to lift his austerity budget program in order to deal with the state's overcrowded and increasingly tense corrections system, according to a spokesman for the union representing security officers working inside the prison walls.

Carl Gray, executive director of Security Unit Employees Council 82 said that promise came out of a labor-management meeting Wednesday with spokesmen for Corrections Commissioner Benjamin Ward.

But, Gray criticized the Carey administration because the day-long meeting produced no assurances that there would be budget increases for inmate rehabilitation programs.

Carey will be asked to lift the hiring freeze clamped on the state's workforce in January as it pertains to the prison system, Gray said. "They have decided to lift the austerity program and begin paying guards to work overtime until they can get new recruits trained and working in the system," Gray said after the conference.

A class of 50 recruits, the first organized since the announcement of the hiring freeze, will begin a 13-week training program at the State Police Academy in September. "That solves one half of the problem," Gray said. "If there isn't some improvement in the manpower situation, these institutions are just not going to function."

"But, the inmates are still a problem," he said. "There is going to be no such thing as meaningful programs unless you talk about programs to keep an inmate from being idle — basketball and so forth."

The union leaders told corrections officials that tensions were growing as the inmate population of the correctional system increased.

They pointed out that the number of inmates held within the walls of state prisons has climbed to 16,380 while the Carey's budget policies had trimmed the ranks of security officers.

The current strength of the security force is now about 5,000, down from a post-Attica peak of 5,400 and, Gray said, "about 500 below the absolute minimum needed to deal with the current population."

He said each guard is now assigned to handle 40 to 70 inmates.

"Teachers are screaming they want no more than 15 to 20 pupils in a classroom and they expect these guys to handle 40 to 70 inmates," Gray said.

The union leader said the department had already expended the $1.3 million for overtime budgeted for the current fiscal year, and the appropriation would increase "to at least $6.4 million this year."

In order to make up for staff shortages "overtime is already climbing the walls," Gray said. He complained that rehabilitation programs were being dropped for the lack of supervisory manpower and idle inmate time was increasing.

Union representatives met with John VanDeCar, director of the Corrections Department, and John Burns, in charge of labor relations.

Gray said that state prisons were near 100 per cent of their physical capacity and over their recommended capacity in terms of the ability to provide adequate security or rehabilitation programs.

A series of budget cuts announced by Carey's budget advisors in May brought the guards' union to the brink of a statewide strike.

At the center of that confrontation was Carey's decision to axe the so-called ACTEC program at Dannemora, which was hailed nationwide as a model rehabilitation program.

"The only thing that is going to deal with inmate tensions is when you can offer genuine programs that will be meaningful when they get on the outside," Gray said.

"We had ACTEC, but they destroyed that because they said its high per inmate cost was too high," he said.

The threatened strike was averted when Carey caved in to protests by the union and Clinton County officials concerned with the effect of the budget move on the local economy.

Although the rehabilitation program was dismantled, Carey announced plans to set up a reception and classification center at Dannemora, thus saving most of the jobs but eliminating most of the intended savings.

Kirschner Backs Naming of Salapatis

KINGSTON — "A replacement for former Ulster County Highway Superintendent Jose Camallonga Jr., should be made as soon as possible," according to County Legislator Lewis C. Kirschner (D-Dist. 6). Camallonga resigned Monday in the wake of an investigation of alleged misconduct on his part in connection with the operation of the highway department. Kirschner, who is the Democratic candidate for county clerk, said he feels the job should go to an Ulster County resident and after review of past applicants, the county should definitely consider John Salapatis of Kingston for the post.

"In my eyes he is qualified and certainly experienced," Kirschner said. "I don't think that party politics (Salapatis is an enrolled Republican) should play any part in this very important position."

Kirschner said he feels the legislature, in making its selection, has to look at the man not the party he belongs to.

He said he has not spoken to Salapatis therefore is not sure he would accept the position. "However," Kirschner said, "I feel he is the man for the job."

FDA Reassurance On Baby Food Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday even though Consumers Union said it found insect parts, rodent hairs and paint chips in a sampling of three major brands it has no reason to believe baby food is unsafe.

"Consumers should be told that there is no reason for them not to use any baby food they have purchased nor is there any reason for them to alter their patterns of use of baby food," the agency said.

"FDA regularly inspects plants where baby and other foods are made and on the basis of recent inspections believes there is no reason for special concern about the manufacture of baby foods," it added.

It also said paint chips sometimes found in the baby foods are enamel and not of the hazardous lead-based variety.

An official of Gerber Products Co., one of the producers of goods sampled, said in Fremont, Mich., the company's baby foods are "wholesome, nutritious and beneficial."

"I am proud of our products and of the contribution our company has made to the world of infant nutrition," said John C. Suerth, chairman and chief executive officer at the Michigan-based firm.

"Quality standards of Gerber baby foods are as high as any food processor in the world," he said.

Your Astrograph

For Friday, Aug. 22, 1975
ARIES (March 21-April 19)
A co-worker upsets you and makes you moody today. Cheer up. Evening brings a refreshing social time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Even though it's Friday night, you'll have a better time with family than with friends.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You'll feel that family members or even your best pal won't understand you today. Don't fret, meeting someone new can chase boredom.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
It's not a day to take chances. Lady Luck has deserted your corner. Your good fortune comes from a family member's surprise in the evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You tend to be extravagant today. You erroneously feel you must impress others. Satisfaction comes from being yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Insisting upon having your way only results in upsetting you. The family will let you know quickly that they don't like it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You tend to be a dreamer today. Ideas will elude you. It will be tough to accomplish the things you should.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Social obligations turn out to be needlessly expensive. Don't be trapped into doing something you don't want to do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Examine your motives to make sure they're not completely selfish before you complain about not getting co-operation at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Your negative thoughts hold Dame Fortune back from furnishing you with a pleasant surprise later in the day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
You delude yourself into thinking the group can't get along without you. It's going to cost you right in the pocket-book.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Someone could steal the applause that you richly deserve for an accomplishment. Don't despair. The day will right itself.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D.

DRINKER: (Q) I have been going out with Cathy for four months and am in love with her very much. But she drinks beer like it was going out of style. I try to stop her but she won't listen.

She is 13 and I know she is killing herself. Tell me what to do. I am 15.—Scared in Texas.

(A.) It is against the law for either you or Cathy to buy beer and it is against the law for anyone to sell it to you. The only way she can legally drink it is with her parents' approval. Tell her this. Refuse to buy beer for her. Tell anyone she tries to buy it from how old she is. Do not take her to places where beer is sold or to parties where it is drunk.

Tell her, as you have truthfully told me, that she is asking for death, and all kinds of trouble on the deadly road she is walking. Tell her that one of the inevitable troubles, if the grave doesn't get her first, is that she will get fat.

Talk to her parents about her drinking habit. Ask them to help you to convince her how dangerous it is.

CONCERT: (Q.) I live in a new town and I know very few people yet. One of them is Stephen. He is 18 and I am 16. He is always friendly when we see each other. My problem is that there is a concert coming that I want very much to go to. I was wondering if it would be all right to ask Stephen to go with me. If I do and he says yes, would I pay for the ticket?—Trying in Pennsylvania

(A.) Ask Stephen to go along with you to the concert. Yes, you should pay for your ticket, because you will be going as his friend, not as a regular date.

Write to Jean Adams, Ph.D., care of this newspaper P. O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Dr. Adams cannot send personal answers.

Israel Mounts 'Greatest Security Precautions' for Kissinger

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel mounted the greatest security precautions in its peacetime history today to protect Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger from threatened demonstrations protesting a new Israeli-Egyptian peace agreement as a new "Munich."

Kissinger was returning to night to the scene of his failure last March, hopeful that this time he could bring off the new agreement. As he did there were increasing signs that both sides had made major concessions to win the agreement for at least a three-year period of non-aggression.

Four right-wing organizations announced they would hold protest demonstrations in Jerusalem to coincide with Kissinger's arrival expected about 7 p.m. (11 a.m. EDT.). Israel took precautions which surpassed even those accorded to former President Richard M. Nixon during his two-day visit to Israel in June, 1974.

On Wednesday there were widespread anti-Kissinger and anti-government demonstrations in Jerusalem and right-wing youths incensed at the proposed agreement broke into Foreign Minister Yigal Allon's Jerusalem. Demonstrators denounced Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin as a "traitor" and demanded his resignation. They carried big "Kissinger Is Not Welcome" signs.

Israeli army units virtually sealed off the borders with neighboring Arab states following an incident Wednesday in which Israeli patrols killed three Palestinian infiltrators who slipped off the border into Israel to try to disrupt the Kissinger visit. Israel retaliated with an air raid against refugee camps which a Lebanese communique said killed 12 persons and wounded 28.

The tight security went into effect as diplomatic sources said Egypt has agreed to let Israel hold the eastern slopes of the two strategic Sinai mountain passes and to man its major spy post in one of them in a three-year pact complete but for some military aspects.

This was a major concession by Egypt and was accompanied by major concessions by the United States — an agreement to supply Israel with nearly $3 billion in aid, to provide unarmed civilian technicians to help man an early warning system in the Sinai and a guarantee to make up oil lost when Israel returns the Abu Rudeis oilfields to Egypt.

Ben-Gurion Airport was virtually shutting down for Kissinger's arrival, with workers being sent home early, parking areas closed and green-bereted border police posted on the terminal roof and patrolling nearby roads.

Armed regular troops patrolled Jerusalem streets. The street in front of the King David Hotel, Kissinger's headquarters in Israel, will be sealed off even to pedestrians. The street opposite was lined with navy blue iron police barricades.

Sixty additional American Secret Service men arrived from U.S. embassies in Rome, Athens, Istanbul and Tehran following the anti-Kissinger demonstrations in Jerusalem Wednesday. Two black bullet-proof limousines were sent in, but one will be used when Kissinger travels to the Arab capitals.

Police arrested a man in Jerusalem on suspicion of conspiring to plot violence against Kissinger. Police sources identified him as a member of the militant Jewish Defense League. Nine other persons were arrested in the demonstrations.

Police rounded up 18 Arabs in East Jerusalem who they said belonged to the Popular Struggle Front guerrilla group. They are charged with bombings that killed one and wounded 44 in the past-year, police said.

Foreign Minister Allon appealed to the nation on radio to direct its opposition to the Sinai pact to the government, not Kissinger.

"All the anger and all the criticism against the government is okay, that I can understand," he said. "Kissinger is not forced on us."

The anti-Kissinger demonstrations, he said, are "an uncultured act and irresponsible from a national point of view for a high level visitor from a friendly country."

Major opposition to the pact was recorded by former Defense Minister Moshe Dayan. He said he opposed the new peace pact because it would be more an agreement with the United States than with Egypt.

"I think this agreement is not beneficial for Israel and I don't think we should accept it," he told reporters on arrival at Ben-Gurion Airport with Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz from Washington.

He said Israel should negotiate an agreement stipulating an end to belligerency and that the Soviet Union should be a party to the negotiations.

UPI Correspondent Michael S. Barrett, quoting Egyptian political sources, reported today from Cairo that a team of American civilians to man early warning monitoring centers in the Sinai could be provided by the companies who build them, avoiding U.S. Congressional approval.

The sources said "less than 100" American technicians would be required to operate the spy posts, including one operated now by Israel in the strategic Gidi pass and two more to be built for Egypt.

"The men would be sent by the companies which built the Gidi station and will build centers for Egypt and work under the U.N. flag," the sources said. They said the team would work "in close coordination" with the United Nations Emergency Force which polices the buffer zone between the two sides, but remain apart from it.

Cabinet On Way Out in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — President Francisco de Costa Gomes says Portugal's Communist-dominated cabinet is on the way out, the victim of anti-Communist rioting and military unrest.

Gen. Costa Gomes told a group of new government officials Wednesday he expects the nation's beleaguered, nine-day-old cabinet to fall in the near future.

"It is not simple to be a member of a government team whose duration will expire in a few days," he said at the swearing-in ceremony for 18 undersecretaries.

The collapse of the cabinet would bring down Communist-backed Prime Minister Vasco Gonçalves, the chief target of anti-Communist rioting that has rocked dozens of towns across Portugal.

The cabinet, the fifth since the armed forces came to power 16 months ago, has come under increasing criticism from non-Communist political parties, moderate military men and radical left-wing officers.

Military Security Chief Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, a leader of the left-wing radicals, emerged as a possible successor to Gonçalves as prime minister.

Tens of thousands of extreme leftists — Trotskyites, Maoists and some Communists — marched through downtown Lisbon Wednesday night in support of Gen. Carvalho.

The noisy march to government headquarters at Sao Bento palace broke up after two hours without violence — one of the few peaceful demonstrations during a turbulent five weeks of protests in Portu-

Foster Son Refuses Lie Detector

DETROIT (UPI) — A lawyer for James Hoffa's foster son, Charles O'Brien, says O'Brien will not take a lie detector test to determine if he knows anything about the onetime Teamster union czar's disappearance 23 days ago.

Hoffa's lawyer son, James P. Hoffa, has demanded repeatedly O'Brien take the test — "because he knows something."

The demand came after investigators placed O'Brien in the area of a suburban Detroit parking lot where Hoffa was last seen July 30. O'Brien said later he was in the area early July 31 only because he was waiting for a ride to work.

The former Teamsters president vanished after telling his family he was meeting a reputed Mafia kingpin and other men for lunch. The three denied they planned to meet Hoffa.

O'Brien's lawyer, James Burdick, said Wednesday O'Brien would not submit to the test. The FBI has not asked him to take one, he added.

Burdick reportedly has advised O'Brien not to submit to any lie detector interrogation on grounds such tests are "often inconclusive."

The lawyer also disclosed two FBI agents and a state police investigator had questioned O'Brien about the Hoffa disappearance for about five hours Monday at a state police office at Detroit's Metropolitan airport.

The meeting, Burdick said, dealt with "very specific" details of O'Brien's whereabouts over a three- or four-day period around July 30. He refused to elaborate.

The FBI and State Police declined comment Wednesday night.
